RAIL BLOCKADE AIMED AT REDS BY MANCHUKUO

Bitter Dispute on Chinese Carrier Near Crisis.

SOVIET CLAIM IN LINE DENIED

Drastic Order Backed by Concentration of Troops.

Harbin, Manchuria (Monday), May 1 (U.P.).—Forceful blockade of the International Railroad stations at Pogranichnaya and Manchuli will shortly be enforced by Manchukuo, it was announced today after a stormy meeting of Chinese Eastern Railway directors.

The drastic order was made more ominous by reported concentrations of Manchu and Japanese troops on one side of the Manchuria-Siberia border, and similar Soviet concentrations on the other side.

Soviet Counter Charge.

Moscow, April 30 (A.P.).—The months long dispute between Russia and Manchukuo over the jointly operated Chinese Eastern Railway, took on a more serious turn tonight with the publication of a communique in which Li Shao Keng, Manchukuoan chairman of the railway board, openly challenged Russia's claim to ownership in the C. E. R.

In reply, M. Kuznetzoff, Soviet vice chairman of the board, declared it was a "direct lie" that the Soviet authorities were holding locomotives belonging to the railroad without authorization in Soviet territory. This question has been one of the points at issue between the Japanese operators of the line.

The counter-claim was advanced by the Soviet representative on the directorate that such action represents "a direct attempt to break the Peiping-Mukden agreements" governing operations of the road.

Warning From Soviet.

The interchange was interpreted as making more acute the conflict be-

Driver's Desertion Strands Yokayama

Tokyo Attache Here and Escort Lose Car and Baggage in Mexico.

Mexico City, April 30 (A.P.).—A delegation of Japanese officials, including Col. Uchiro Yokayama, Japanese military attache in Washington, were stranded several hours in Tierra-Colorado, about 60 miles from the Port of Acapulco, today when the driver of their car deserted them, taking the machine and their luggage.

They were en route to Acapulco to welcome officers of the Japanese war ships Yakumo and Iwate, due there tomorrow. They continued in another automobile.

Motorcycle officers later found the automobile abandoned in a stream where the driver had stalled it. The driver, whose name was given as Jose Garcia, had fled with the luggage.

Toledo, Ohio, April 30 (A.P.).—Four young bandits early today shot and killed a special watchman, terrorized nearly 80 persons in holding up three restaurants here and escaped with loot estimated by police at $250—all within two hours.

Jobless Graduates to Start "Cap and Gown" Trek to Capital Today.

New York, April 30 (A.P.).—A "cap and gown" trek to Washington to seek relief for the "white collar" jobless begins tomorrow.

From all parts of the country, delegations have answered the call of the Association of Unemployed College Alumni for a conference in the Capital tomorrow and Wednesday to seek relief legislation.

COLORADO SOCIETY WOMAN VANISHES

Wife of Architect Leaves No Clews When She Disappears.

Denver, April 30 (A.P.).—Disappearance of Mrs. William E. Fisher, prominent Denver society matron, was veiled in mystery tonight.

Slight in stature and ill recently, she dropped from sight at her home here Saturday night while members of her family, entertaining friends, believed she was watching over her 6-months-old granddaughter.

Police announced all clews had failed.

A report by Sheriff R. A. Johnston, of Morgan County, that a feminine hitchhiker detained at Hillrose, Colo., was Mrs. Fisher, proved to be erroneous.

The woman, questioned after she stepped from the car of a motorist there, first said she was Mrs. Fisher, the sheriff reported, but later announced she was Mary Hogarth, of North Platte, Nebr., hitchhiking her way home from Boise, Idaho.

Mrs. Fisher's husband, a Denver architect, and four children, motored to Fort Morgan to assure themselves as to her identity.

All night police, private detectives and friends searched Denver without success, patrolling with flashlights the banks of Cherry Creek, swollen by rains, into which it was feared she might have fallen.

Revolt Aspect Is Seen In Canary Island Fire

Las Palmas, Canary Islands, April 30 (A.P.).—Oil storage tanks and several fruit warehouses in the vicinity were fired today after a general strike had been declared here on the eve of May Day.

Authorities said the strike had a revolutionary aspect and sent civil guard reinforcements to protect the property. The government meanwhile ordered out troops to suppress any disorders.

Tailspin Kills Boy Taking First Flight

Parents Witness Death of Son and Pilot Near Pittsburgh Field.

Pittsburgh, April 30 (A.P.).—Going into a tailspin at a height of 500 feet, a plane crashed near Bettis Field late today, fatally injuring the pilot, Clyde Hackworth, 26, and killing his 11-year-old passenger, Miles H. England, jr.

While the boy's parents looked on from the flying field, the plane, turning preparatory to landing, swirled suddenly to earth, struck an embankment near the airport, and turned over. Hackworth, who came to Pittsburgh from Chicago about four months ago, died an hour after the crash in a suburban hospital.

The youth's parents followed the ambulance to the hospital, where he was pronounced dead. They said it was their son's first ride in a plane and that he had insisted on going up.

Upturned Ship Sighted Near Cape Hatteras

Norfolk, Va., April 30 (A.P.).—Floating bottom up, a 40-foot boat apparently a yacht, was sighted by the American steamer Wyoming approximately 15 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras. About 10:30 this morning the Wyoming reported to Coast Guard headquarters here by radio.

The cutter Hermes was dispatched to the spot to investigate.

LIVES OF 6 LOST AS WINDS LASH SOUTHERN AREA

Mississippi and Arkansas Suffer Property Loss of Half Million.

FIERCE GALE BLOWS HOUSES INTO RIVER

Doctor, Wife and Children Escape Death as Home Is Hurled 200 Feet.

Yazoo City, Miss., April 30 (A.P.).—Tornadic winds lashed southeastern Arkansas and western Mississippi last night and early today, taking a toll of 6 known dead, 50 or more injured, an estimated half million dollar damage and left hundreds homeless.

The heaviest damage was caused at Yazoo City, where two Negroes, an aged woman and a child, were killed, and seven white persons and 35 Negroes injured when the twister demolished about 200 houses. A Negro woman was killed near Greenville, Miss.

Homes Blown Into River.

Striking the plantation area southwest of Lake Village, Ark., the storm killed W. D. Boyd, 69, father of Dr. H. C. Boyd; an unidentified colored girl and a colored woman. Dr. Boyd, his wife and their four children were injured when their home was blown almost 200 feet and demolished. Seven or more others were injured in the vicinity.

It was believed others were killed in both sections. Many homes were blown into the Yazoo River in this section.

The white persons injured at Yazoo City are: Mrs. Charles Chester, critically, Yazoo City; Harris Carr, Yazoo City; Mrs. Lockie Burbelle, Yazoo City; Mrs. Eleanor Milliner, Yazoo City; Mrs. W. D. McCallip, Yazoo City; a Mrs. Neely, Yazoo City; a Mr. Leach Jackson.

The tornado struck near midnight in both Arkansas and Mississippi, and swept a wide path of destruction.

Aided by Red Cross.

The twister, dipping down near Jonestown, southwest of Yazoo City, struck the little Yazoo River settlement with its full force, skipped across the swollen stream, settled again at the southwest edge of Yazoo City, then tore a path a quarter of a mile wide along the east bank of the river and disappeared in the hills.

A thousand persons made homeless by the storm were being sheltered, fed and clothed by the Red Cross in relief camps hurriedly established by the Yazoo City chapter in cooperation with municipal authorities.

National Guardsmen patrolled the stricken area during the day, guarding against looting and assisting in relief work.

Gov. Sennett Conner and Adjt. Gen. Thomas J. Grayson went to the scene of the Mississippi disaster early today and immediately made available State relief forces.

5 Greek Priests Break In Turkish Holy Synod

Istanbul, April 30 (A.P.).—What authorities called a burst of Bolshevism shattered the ancient calm of the Patriarchate, situated on the Golden Horn, today. Five Greek priests broke into a meeting of the Holy Synod, consisting of the Patriarch Photius and archbishops, and demanded that the priests be able to share the archbishops' right of attending the synod.

The patriarch condemned one priest to a year's imprisonment at Mount Athos. Another was unfrocked, and three were forgiven.

Potomac Dragged For Body of Butts

Missing Alexandrian's Car Found With Note Indicating Suicide.

Harbor police dragged the Potomac River yesterday in search of the body of T. Frank Butts, 52 years old, of Alexandria, Va., who has been missing since last Monday.

Bringing the harbor police into the hunt for the body resulted from the finding of Butts' automobile yesterday in Rosslyn by County Officer Hugh Jones and Detective Sergt. Edgar Sims, of Alexandria. Searching the car, the officers found a note which read:

"You'll find me in the river, where I will be happy with worries gone. Don't worry, but carry on. Have a quartet sing "Abide With Me."

Officer Sims said Butts was superintendent of the Alexandria Iron Works and felt confident that the car was left in Rosslyn last Monday. Butts left a wife and four children.

Raids and Traps for Gangs

Chicago Hoodlums Seized in Police Descents to Clean Up City.

Chicago, April 30 (A.P.).—Acting to check a major gang war between the embattled Capone and Touhy organizations, and at the same time purge the city of racketeers prior to the opening of the world's fair, police raided nearly 100 hoodlum haunts today.

Although the drive resulted in apprehension of only minor hangers-on for the most part, a mass of documentary evidence was seized. The records will be submitted to a grand jury, police said, and wholesale indictments requested.

Roger Touhy, who has long nourished an ambition to remove the Capone clan from the local racketeering picture, was an especial quarry of the raiders.

West Side saloons and other retreats of Touhy and his band of guerrillas, estimated to number more than 50, were combed. Records of transactions with scores of cleaning and dyeing concerns, laundries and labor organizations upon which the combine allegedly levied tribute were obtained by the police.

Murray Humphries, William (Klondike) O'Donnell and "Three-Fingered" Jack White, kingpins of the Capone syndicate, who Lieut. William Blaul, of the State's attorney's office, said have been marked for death by the Touhy outfit, likewise were not to be found.

In all, ten Capone "business offices" were visited and records of vice, liquor and racketeering revenues seized.

New York Racket Chiefs About to Fall Into Income Tax Net.

New York, April 30 (A.P.).—The trap that snared Chicago's elusive crime dictator, Al Capone, was disclosed tonight as about to be sprung on a selected list of New York hoodlums.

Working in conjunction with city detectives, a squad of agents from the Department of Justice has been quietly laying the trap by checking up on the incomes and the taxpaying habits, or evasions, of metropolitan racketeers.

The American says orders for the Federal campaign in this area were reported to have come from sources close to President Roosevelt following upon disclosures of racketeering activities in legitimate business as well as in liquor and narcotics.

The Daily News says the income tax investigators have amassed sufficient evidence against 40 gangsters to seek indictments this week.

The Federal operatives, working under the direction of Hugh McCullan, the Internal Revenue agent who figured in the Capone investigation, were represented as having rounded up witnesses prepared to tell the grand jury about gangster terrorism in legitimate industry.

Among the tradesmen expected to tell of being forced to pay hoodlums regular fees for the privileges of continuing unmolested in business are representatives of the garment, poultry, meat and produce, cleaning and dyeing and laundering industries.

HELVERING TO GET REVENUE POSITION

Senator McGill, Patronage Chief for State, Not to Oppose.

(Associated Press.)

The appointment of Guy T. Helvering, Kansas State Democratic chairman, as Commissioner of Internal Revenue, was stated in high administration quarters last night to be virtually assured.

Reports of Helvering's impending appointment followed close upon a statement by Senator McGill (Democrat), Kansas, that he had been assured "personally" by Postmaster General Farley that he would be recognized as the "referee" in all matters pertaining to Kansas patronage.

McGill said he himself had been informed that the administration desired to submit Helvering's name as Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

"I shall not expect to stand in the way of Mr. Helvering's confirmation," McGill said.

D. V. A. CHIEF LABELS BONUS MARCH MYTH

Publicity Seekers Seen at Bottom of New Trek Predictions.

The threatened bonus march of 1933 was characterized last night as a myth, originating in the minds of publicity seekers, in a statement by National Commander William Conley of the Disabled Veterans of America.

"I think Washington is unduly alarmed by claims and counterclaims of alleged leaders of the so-called B. E. F. that they can send 50,000 veterans to this city on a bonus march," said Conley.

"Leaders of what?" he continued. "Get any or all of them to give you names and addresses of the 'camps and posts throughout the country.' Try to locate these groups and the myth will be exploded."

Conley, here to take part in a radio broadcast of the D. V. A., said "officials here have been entirely misled by self-styled spokesmen. There is not one of these talkers who can successfully order 50,000 men to come to Washington or stay away from here, and the whole publicity scheme will be exposed when officials refuse to waste time with those who are using veterans as sounding boards for personal publicity.

Conley declared that the service-connected veterans are bitterly disappointed as a result of passage of the

Son Who Refused Air Ride Sees Father Die

Boston, April 30 (A.P.).—Edward Jenna, 35, of Belmont, crashed to his death in an airplane today while his 14-year-old son, who refused to accompany him on a short pleasure hop, looked on.

The plane went into tailspin at an altitude of 400 feet and crashed into a playground near the East Boston Airport as scores of children scurried to safety.

Gandhi Planning New Fast To Last for Three Weeks

Observers Fear Long Period of Abstinence as Caste Protest Will Mean Certain Death to Aged and Frail Mahatma.

Poona, India, April 30 (A.P.).—The aged and frail Mahatma Gandhi announced from Yeroda jail today that on May 8 he will begin another fast, this time a "three-week unconditional, irrevocable fast" in connection with his campaign against untouchability and the caste system.

The political and religious leader of thousands summoned his son Devidas to the jail this morning and broke the news. For two hours the son tried to dissuade his father, but unsuccessfully. Thereafter the news was sent to various friends in India and abroad.

In an interview the Mahatma denied the fast was a part of a deep political move. "It is a process of self-purification," he said simply.

Mr. Gandhi, who has been serving an indefinite term since his arrest on January 4, 1932, under a regulation permitting arrest merely for "good and sufficient reasons" in connection with his passive resistance campaign, refused to give any definite reason for the decision today.

Observers here who saw the Mahatma after his one-week fast last September fear the three-week fast will mean certain death for him.

They interpret the decision as an expression of the Mahatma's dissatisfaction with the progress of efforts of high caste Hindus to remove untouchability and his conviction that the untouchables (the lower classes) themselves are not yet confident high caste Hindus will "play the game."

The news of Mr. Gandhi's decision spread like wildfire.

PARIS ACCEPTS TARIFF TRUCE WITH AMERICA

Increases Held Up Pending London Parley on June 12.

WORD SENT HERRIOT EN ROUTE TO FRANCE

Session on Retention of Gold Standard Awaits Statesman's Return.

Aboard S. S. Ile de France, en route to France, April 30.—Former Premier Edouard Herriot, head of the French mission to America, received a radiogram from the French government tonight, completely agreeing to the terms of the Franco-American tariff truce as drafted during his conversations with President Roosevelt.

The dispatch from Paris to Herriot said the tariff truce with the United States provided:

1. No tariff increases until the opening of the World Economic Conference at London on June 12.

2. France is at liberty to apply a compensating surtax after June 12 if the dollar falls.

Herriot's Actions Approved.

Herriot emphasized that the tariff truce was the only practical result of his Washington visit.

The message from his government congratulated him warmly and approved of his actions while in the United States.

Herriot, in an interview, attached the utmost importance to Mr. Roosevelt's willingness to agree to join in a move for permanent arms control as a step toward world disarmament.

The French feel that this departure from the traditional aloofness toward entangling alliances really is the greatest postwar change made in the United States foreign policy. They expect Mr. Roosevelt to accomplish this arms cooperation through a declaration rather than asking for congressional action.

Loan Held Weakness.

Paris, April 30 (A.P.).—France's ability to remain on the gold standard, which daily becomes a more pressing problem, is among the questions an extraordinary session of the cabinet will discuss immediately upon the return of former Premier Herriot from the Washington economic talks.

The borrowing of £30,000,000 by the French government from English banks last week has been taken by the opposition as an indication of financial weakness.

France to Settle City Bonds on Gold Dollar

Paris, April 30 (U.P.).—In order to reassure American holders of French municipal bonds, the ministry of finance tonight announced that the 6 per cent bonds of the cities of Lyons, Marseilles and Bordeaux, maturing tomorrow, would be repaid at the gold dollar rate.

Greta Garbo Sails Back To Resume Film Work

San Diego, Calif., April 30 (A.P.).—Greta Garbo returned to America today to resume her work in the films and, with a wave of her hand to several scores of fans who had arisen at dawn to see her ship dock, she said she was glad to be back.

Tanned by the wind and the sun on the long trip from Gothenburg aboard the Annie Johnson, combination freight and passenger vessel, the actress disembarked here to motor to Hollywood with Mrs. Saika Viertel, wife of a film director.

Woodin Improving From Sore Throat

Treasury Secretary May Be Able to Return to Office Soon.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Woodin continued to improve yesterday from the sore throat which has confined him to his apartment in the Carlton Hotel during the last week.

The Treasury Secretary, who suffered the attack of throat trouble after weeks of talking to financial and other groups, held hope last night that if his condition continues to improve he can return to his work at the Treasury early in the week.

During his confinement to his apartment, his secretaries have brought much of the work from his desk to his bedside, and he has done nearly as much work there as he did at his office, except that his doctor would not permit him to put in the long hours he devoted to his tasks at the Treasury.

CHIEF OF PERU ASSASSINATED AFTER REVIEW

President's Killer And 2 Soldiers Also Slain.

HEAVY GUARD PROVES VAIN

Sanchez Cerro Shot by Opposition Member In Big Crowd.

Lima, Peru, April 30 (A.P.).—Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, President of Peru since December, 1931, was assassinated today a short time after he had reviewed a parade of 20,000 young men in Jorge Chavez Park.

His assassin, Abelardo Hurtado de Mendoza, fired several shots into the president's body as the executive's party started to drive away from the park, and then himself was slain by presidential guards.

Two soldiers were killed and one officer, five soldiers and a civilian wounded during a melee which followed upon the assassination.

Dies in Operating Room.

The attack was so sudden that elaborate precautions which had been made to protect the president's life were unavailing. A captain of the civil guards leaped on the presidential car and attempted to shield Senor Sanchez Cerro, but without success.

Soldiers who lined the sidewalk down which the president and his suite walked also were unable to stop the assassin before the president was mortally wounded.

The chauffeur of the presidential automobile put on full speed as soon as the shots were fired and drove to the Italian Hospital, while Premier Manzanilla held the unconscious president's body in his arms.

Cursory examination by physicians at the Italian hospital showed that Senor Sanchez Cerro had been shot in or near the heart. He died soon after being taken to the operating room, despite the injection of serums and other restoratives.

Intention Mistaken.

The captain of the civil guard, Fortunato Bedoya, who was wounded, said he was supervising his men in

$2,260,021,958 AID ADVANCED BY R.F.C.

Less Than One-Fourth Repaid Since Feb. 2, 1932; Statistics Given.

Advances of more than $2,000,000,000 have been made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation since its inception, and of these a total less than one-quarter has been repaid, according to a statement released today by the corporation.

The total amount disbursed since February 2, 1932, when the corporation was organized, is $2,260,021,958. Of this amount, $464,753,881 has been repaid. Nearly half of the total amount has been lent to banks, which have received $1,039,269,599 and have repaid about 34 per cent of their borrowings.

In addition to bank loans, $13,082,500 has been spent for the purchase of preferred stock to organize or reorganize banks. A further quarter million has been lent to banks on their preferred stock. There have been 9,685 loans to banks in operation, and 668 loans to receivers for closed banks. These figures do not include 1,125 loans to building and loan associations.

Of the amount advanced by the corporation, $2,091,607,686 has gone to private business and relief work in States and Territories. The remainder was turned over to the Department of Agriculture for farm relief of various sorts, and to the Treasury Department for the purchase of home loan bank stock.

Crop loans in 1932 were $64,204,503, of which $20,116,875 have been repaid. These loans were made in all States but Rhode Island, and averaged $126 each. The farmer-borrowers numbered 507,632.

In 1933, the crop loans amounted to $42,323,030, of which $3,147 has been repaid. Most of this repayment was due to loans which were authorized, but which the farmers did not

Arms Crisis Seen At Geneva Parley

France and Germany So Far Apart That Serious Situation Exists.

Geneva, April 30 (A.P.).—A grave situation in the world disarmament conference was indicated tonight in view of Sunday's developments.

The first was the visit of Rene Massigli, French delegate, to Paris to receive fresh instructions from the French government concerning German amendments to the British disarmament plan. The French regard the amendments as imperiling Chancellor Adolf Hitler's disarmament agreement.

The second development was a conference of Hugh R. Wilson, United States Minister to Switzerland, and Allen W. Dulles, legal adviser to the American delegation, with Capt. Anthony Eden, British delegate. They sought a formula which likely would bridge the widely divergent French and German division.

Munich, Germany, April 30 (A.P.).—A bull elephant that suddenly broke loose today in the Munich Zoological Garden attacked the director of the zoo, Heinz Heck, and an attendant, tossing both into the air.

ARGENTINE ENVOYS TO SEE ROOSEVELT

More Statesmen Converge on Capital for Part in Conferences.

(Associated Press.)

Delicate questions of war debts, peace in Europe and the Orient, exchange restrictions, currencies and tariffs faced President Roosevelt anew last night with statesmen of half a dozen more nations descending upon Washington to join in the White House conversations.

Countries of Latin-America and the Far East as well as Europe followed close on the heels of the British and Canadian prime ministers and the former premier of France, who have paid just brief but memorable visits to Washington.

The new procession opens today with Argentina's Ambassador to France, Thomas Le Breton, arriving to join Felipe Espil, Argentine envoy here, in conducting the conversations with the American Chief Executive.

Italy's Finance Minister.

Then on tomorrow, Italy appears in the person of Guido Jung, Mussolini's minister of finance, who comes accompanied by a staff of eight experts.

Germany, another of Europe's "big four," joins the parade on Friday, when Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, reaches New York with a pair of expert assistants.

Mexico's minister of finance, Alberto J. Pani, arrives the end of the week.

Japanese Due May 23.

An impressive Japanese delegation, including Viscount Kikujiro Ishii, former foreign minister, and Eigo Fukai, deputy governor of the Bank of Japan, will be here from May 23 to 28.

Also arriving the latter part of May is J. F. De Assis Brasil, Brazilian ambassador to Argentina. Chile's spokesman will be coming soon.

Besides the eleven nations invited to send special representatives, numerous others, through diplomatic channels, are joining the conversations aimed at preparing the way for a mass attack upon the world depression at the international monetary and economic conference opening in London, June 12. Many of the representatives being sent here will speak for their countries at London, as well.

Tap Day Is Scheduled At Catholic U. Today

The traditional ceremony will be conducted by the Rev. Alfonse F. Freehill, O. S. B., faculty adviser of the Interclub Council.

Rushing of freshmen and other candidates for fraternity or club membership has been concluded in the smokers held by the organizations the last few weeks. The presidents of the clubs will tender the bids publicly to the men voted to membership in their particular fraternity or club.

Miss Elizabeth Harris, Washington attorney, and C. O'Conor Goolrick, attorney, of Fredericksburg, Va., one of the most prominent Democrats in the State, will be the speakers at a meeting at 8 o'clock tonight in the American Legion room at Gadsby's Tavern, Alexandria, under the auspices of the Woman's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, the association against the eighteenth amendment, and the crusaders.

Capt. William H. Etayton, of Washington, will conduct the meeting after the opening address by Mrs. Ben B. Cain, jr.

The local group of women have been conducting a campaign for members assisted by a group from the Washington organization, under the leadership of Mrs. William Beverly Mason, and will continue the drive today and tomorrow. Members of the Alexandria organization are on duty at the George Mason Hotel in a room reserved for the visitors, where each day they act as hostesses.

San Francisco Calls Rev. Jason N. Pierce

Norfolk, Va., April 30 (A.P.).—The Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of the First Congregational Church, which President Coolidge attended while in Washington, today announced his resignation from the Christian Temple here to accept a call to the First Congregational Church in San Francisco. His resignation will become effective June 1.

Judge Curtis D. Wilbur, former Secretary of the Navy, who was an officer in the Washington church when Dr. Pierce was pastor there, is chairman of the offical board of the San Francisco church.

economy law and that if any group was justified in demonstrating at the National Capital it would be them.

"However, the D. A. V. always has and intends to continue to pursue an orderly course in its fight for relief," said Conley.

"I have no hesitancy in declaring," he continued, "that I can prove that the inspiration of the present march is the child of the Communist party, it being a part of the acknowledged plans of the Reds to bring about at any place—national or local—the largest possible number of unemployed in the belief that such conditions further the program of those who would destroy American ideals."

Conley explained that he did not infer that any considerable number of the men in the last bonus march or in any projected one are disloyal or have communistic tendencies.

"But I do declare," he said, "that they are merely making themselves the tools of the broad communistic propaganda."

CONGRESS TO SPEED FARM AID PROGRAM

Prompt Action Sought to Clear Way to Other Roosevelt Bills.

(Associated Press.)

A Democratic Congress will drive for final action this week on the administration's gigantic farm relief-mortgage refinancing-inflation bill to clear the way for President Roosevelt's proposals for a broad public works-employment measure, railroad rehabilitation and power to negotiate reciprocal tariffs with foreign nations.

House Democratic leaders gave notice yesterday they would resort to every means to speed the farm relief bill to conference today after forcing a vote on the inflation provision—the parliamentary situation permitting. They expressed hope of an early agreement with the Senate to make the bill law and rush it into operation.

Early Adjournment Sought.

Most of the Roosevelt legislative program already is well advanced down the legislative road. Pressure is being brought, nevertheless, on Democratic congressional chieftains for swift action, in view of the President's desire that the special session adjourn early in June before the World Economic Conference gets under way in London.

Many controversial measures, however, such as the banking reform-limited deposit insurance bill, and the 30-hour-week production control measure must be put over the final hurdles.

The President, possibly tomorrow, will send a message to Congress asking legislation to set up a Federal coordinator to effect sweeping economies in the Nation's railroad system.

Tariff Message Due.

The President also may send a message during the week asking authority to negotiate reciprocal tariffs with foreign nations and to lower duties as much as 50 per cent.

Later, a public works program, calling for highway, naval, and other construction, such as self-liquidating projects, and river and harbor improvement, is to be submitted. Indications are that the immediate outlay contemplated will not exceed $2,000,000,000. This, however, probably would encompass only the first year, beyond which Mr. Roosevelt declines to commit himself at present.

Speaker Rainey disclosed yesterday that he was confident the House would quickly approve the inflation section of the farm relief bill, but whether the parliamentary situation will permit a vote on the issue today can not be determined until it is submitted for action.

New Target Device Eliminates Danger

Accuracy Is Registered by Electricity Instead of Using Bullets.

Target practice may be revolutionized through a new rifle safety device which was demonstrated at the Congress Heights Rifle Range yesterday in the presence of Army and civil rifle experts.

The new device, invented by Stephen Nagy, of 104 C street northeast, eliminates the use of ammunition and powder—and danger. Operation of the rifle and registration of the marksmanship on the target is attained through electricity. The device may be used indoors.

Men and boys wishing to qualify for rifle practice may now use the device and realize the same results as if they were using a loaded rifle. Riflemen believe that the invention will boost interest in rifle practice.

Mr. Nagy, the inventor, was formerly a member of the Engineer Corps of the U. S. Army. Members of the 121st Engineers and the National Rifle Association, who were present at the demonstration, voiced enthusiasm over the innovation.

Nashville, Tenn., April 30 (A.P.).—Legalization of beer in Tennessee, effective tomorrow, was hailed tonight by Finance and Taxation Commissioner Dancey Fort as a boom to elementary schools and their teachers, but B. F. Auld, superintendent of the State Antisaloon League organization, made it the occasion for urging drys to "be alert to oppose liquor's return."

CONTRACTORS URGE BUILDING PROGRAM

Board Session Convening Here to Seek National Works Project.

Congressional authorization of an approximate $5,000,000,000 national construction program will be the foremost objective of the annual spring meeting of the governing board of the Associated General Contractors of America which convenes today at the Willard Hotel.

"Launching of the President's contemplated program of public works construction will definitely mark the turning of the corner to prosperity," Edward J. Harding, managing director of the contractors' organization, declared today in announcing the board meeting.

Harding estimated that the President's program, if immediately launched, would provide jobs for at least 5,000,000 of the present army of unemployed.

The meeting of the contractors' board today was preceded by a meeting yesterday of the executive cabinet of the association at which the nomination of A. P. Greensfelder, of St. Louis, was formally indorsed as a director of the civic development department, Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

A. C. Tozzer, of New York, president of the association, is presiding over the meetings.

spoke frankly of the patronage in his home State, leaving no doubt that he was the man to be seen by those desiring Federal appointments in Kansas.

In his statement last night, McGill said, in part:

"There has been some confusion in the minds of Kansas people, particularly among the friends, both Democrats and Republicans, who have supported my candidacies for United States Senator, as to who would be the administrations' referee in Federal patronage matters in the State.

"The thought became prevalent among some that Guy T. Helvering, as Democratic State chairman, would be recognized by the administration in matters of Federal appointments in Kansas.

"In order to clear up any misconception among my friends and those who are applicants for Federal appointments, I want it to be known that National Chairman James A. Farley has personally assured me that I would be recognized as the administration's referee in all matters pertaining to Federal appointments in the State, save and except the postal appointments in the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth congressional districts, represented by Democratic members of Congress, such appointments under long established custom being clearly the patronage of members of the lower branch of Congress who are of the same political faith as the administration in power.

"I have also received the personal assurance of State Chairman Helvering, himself, that he will not attempt to interfere in any manner pertaining to Federal appointments in Kansas. Chairman Helvering has not only given me that assurance verbally and in writing but he has likewise authorized me to give the widest publicity to his attitude with respect to these matters.

"I am informed it is the administration's desire to submit Mr. Helvering's nomination for appointment as commissioner of internal revenue. With the clear and positive understanding I have received from the administration that every privilege and prerogative in Federal patronage matters will be protected and preserved to my constituency and to myself, as the Democratic senator from Kansas; and recognizing the administration is entitled to every consideration in its judgment as to the selection of men and women for important posts to comprise the President's official and semiofficial family, I shall not expect to stand in the way of Mr. Helvering's confirmation."

PLACE GIVEN INDIANS IN FORESTRY CAMPS

Roosevelt Names 72 Sites for Conservation Work on Reservations.

(Associated Press.)

A place in the Civilian Conservation Corps was set aside for American Indians yesterday with approval by President Roosevelt of sites of 72 forest work camps on reservations in 15 Western and Southwestern States.

Robert Fechner, director of the emergency conservation program, said the Indian service, under the Interior Department, will supervise the camps and direct the work. The Army has charge of other camps.

Fechner said employment will be provided for approximately 14,400 Indians for six months. While the camps are intended to alleviate the Indian relief problem, he said other men would be given an opportunity to work on the same reservations if a surplus of jobs develops. Indians selected for the work will not be counted in the quota of other corps members fixed for each State. Workers selected will go directly to work camps without a period in Army conditioning camps required for other corps members.

The largest number of camps, 33, will be in Arizona, 12 of them on the Navajo reservation and others in the Apache, Hualpai, Papago, San Carlos and San Xavier unit reservations.

One will be set up in the Hoopa Valley reservation, California, one in Southern Ute, Colorado; one on the Fort Hall reservation, Idaho. One on Eastern Cherokee, North Carolina; one on the Fort Bertholdi reserve, North Dakota; three on the Warm Springs reserve, Oregon; one in the Uintah and Ouray reserves, Utah, and two on the Shoshone reservation, Wyoming.

A camp will be set up in each of two Minnesota reservations, the consolidated Chippewa and Red Lake; one in each of five Montana reserves, the Blackfeet, Crow, Flathead, Fort Belknap and Tongue River; Ten in New Mexico, six in the Navajo and the others in the Jicarilla, Mescalero and Zuni; one in South Dakota in the Standing Rock, Cheyenne River, Pine Ridge and Rosebud reserves; one in each of the two Wisconsin reserves, the Lac du Flambeau and Menominee, and eight in Washington in the Colville-Spokane, Makah, Quinaielt and Yakima reservations.

Deadline Is Today For Gold Hoarders

Holders of More Than $100 Certificates, Bullion or Coin Face Prison.

(Associated Press.)

A determined Government last night was drawing in the ends of the seine that in another 24 hours will enmesh gold hoarders who choose to face prosecution rather than turn their yellow metal into the banks to serve the entire Nation as basis for additional credit.

The period for turning in gold, as ordered by President Roosevelt, ends with the close of business today. Some who have not complied may be punished by a fine of $10,000 and ten years in prison or both.

Secretary Woodin has indicated the Government is going to get the metal and punish those who deliberately seek to evade the order.

After today it will be unlawful for any person to have more than $100 in gold coin, bullion or gold certificates, to export gold or use it in any way except under license. Any person receiving gold in business transactions must turn it over to the Federal Reserve Banks within three days.

Fosdick Is Chosen League Body Chief

New York Lawyer Takes Wickersham's Place; Lauds New Deal.

New York, April 30 (A.P.).—The League of Nations Association announced today the election of Raymond B. Fosdick, New York attorney, as president.

He succeeds former Attorney General George W. Wickersham, who had headed the organization since 1928. Other officers were reelected.

Fosdick issued a statement saying that "Secretary Hull's pronouncement of April 9 to the effect that the Roosevelt administration is prepared to turn its back on the American doctrine of economic nationalism is perhaps the most heartening and promising sign of the new deal."

MANCHURIA ORDERS RAILWAY BLOCKADE

tween Soviet and Manchukuo authorities, and followed the breaking of connections between the C. E. R. and Russian railroads on April 1—a development the Soviet government charged was inspired by Japanese officials in Manchukuo.

A warning was issued by the Russian representative that "any attempt to destroy the force of the Peiping-Mukden agreements disturbs the international status on which the management of the Chinese Eastern Railway is based."

He demanded that the normal activities of the road be restored and that "further attempts to break those agreements" be stopped.

Peiping, April 30 (U.P.).—The United States Legation awaited word today from the United States consul general at Harbin, George Hanson, on the Soviet-Japanese-Manchukuo dispute over the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Hanson has been in western Manchuria for the past several days, personally investigating reports of Soviet seizures of rolling stock, basis of the Manchukuo threat to seize the entire line.

One-Sixth of Chinese Under Radical Control

(Associated Press.)

The Foreign Policy Association said yesterday that one-sixth of the Chinese republic, with a population of approximately 50,000,000, is living under Chinese Communist administrations despite the campaigns the Nationalist government at Nanking is waging against the spread of radicalism. This is the assay of the political situation in China given in a report by T. A. Bisson, of the association's research staff.

He said the communistic wave in China is supported by the peasantry, and that the red army leaders have an enthusiasm and skill in guerilla warfare which is lacking in the Nanking government's troops.

JOHNSON DEPLORES U. S. AIR WEAKNESS

Legion Head Sees Danger in Economy-Peace Moves Which Hit Defense.

Indianapolis, April 30 (A.P.).—Addressing a group of aviators assembled here tonight from all parts of the country, Louis Johnson, National Commander of the American Legion, deplored the fact that the United States ranks fourth in national air defense.

"I do not want to see this country alarmed, nor do I want our Government to spread false propaganda," he said. "It is time, however, that from official quarters our people were awakened to the rapidity with which our national defenses are crumbling.

"Now, year by year, they are being weakened more and more in the name of economy or so-called world peace. No one prays more fervently than I, who saw something of war, for world peace. But I know and you know that the world is not yet ready for it. In the meantime I do not want to see my country crucified on a cross of deceit, a pitiful sacrifice to an ideal that, however noble it may be, is as yet unattainable."

The aviators, mostly commercial pilots, flew to Indianapolis today from many States as the closing event of a legion membership drive. They were told by the national commander that the United States, while fourth in aviation defense, was first in commercial aviation.

Johnson said the Air Corps had to absorb 18 per cent of a $34,000,000 reduction in appropriation for the entire Army.

"I do not see how our air services can sustain another serious blow," he continued. "If this undermining of our national defense continues longer we soon shall find that we have a demoralized Army and Navy."

The legion head suggested as a part of a plan to provide work that men be put to work building ships to bring the Navy up to its authorized strength and to construct airplanes to complete the Army's five-year program. He said that program was a year overdue in the matter of completion.

BIBLE CLASS HEARS SENATOR COPELAND

President's Day Message Likens Capital Events to Rule of Moses.

"Sometimes we grow discouraged and downhearted, but it is the duty of every citizen to make this country not the greatest in the world but the greatest country that can be conceived under God," declared Senator Royal S. Copeland, addressing the Harrison Bible Class of Congress Street M. P. Church yesterday morning.

In a special President's Day message, Senator Copeland likened the present status of our Government to the rule as set up by Moses.

He said, in part: "And as Jethro said unto Moses, 'This thing is too heavy for thee; thou art not able to perform it thyself alone,' so our President is unable to carry all the burdens of our country. In the development of our Government there is a distribution of authority; every individual has a part. It is he who must uphold the hand of the President, who in this day of depression and revolution, and surrounded by 14,000,000 unemployed men and women, is alone carrying such heavy burdens, so many of them such petty ones.

"We can be thankful that our President is living in this day. Going back into the notes of James Madison, written at the time of the founding of our Constitution, we find that the fundamental purpose of our Government was the protection of property. Many senators and congressmen still maintain this as the purpose. Several years ago, during the composition of the income tax law, I proposed as an exemption all expenses incurred as a result of illness, doctors' fees, medicines, etc. However, this proposal was met with great rebuff, since, one senator declared, 'The purpose of our Government is the protection of our property.'"

"The majority of our law-makers believe that the purpose of our Government is to serve humanity. Any government which fails to do this will wither and die. Our President holds this as the purpose of our Government and it is our duty to uphold our President and make his administration a successful one."

Speaking to the policemen who are members of the class, and those who were visitors, Senator Copeland said that there is no group doing more to help humanity. It is they who direct the people and solve their problems as Moses of old did, he said.

"We have recently had a distressing example of disrespect for our law and order, the mobbing of a judge in the State of Iowa. When we fail to have respect for law and order, society is gone; and so today we would do well to practice the prayer of the late Senator Depew's wife for our President and do our part to uphold the President."

NUNS AND BROTHERS HEAR HANS KINDLER

Symphony's Conductor, in Speech at Seminary, Urges Music Value.

Before a group of nuns and Brothers representing the outstanding teaching orders in the Catholic Church, Dr. Hans Kindler, conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra, yesterday afternoon delivered an address in Immaculata Seminary for the purpose of stimulating interest in the symphony orchestra among the parochial and private schools of Washington. Many prominent music lovers were among the special guests.

The value of music in the development of culture was stressed by Dr. Kindler, who deplored the fact that the strenuous present-day life of Americans has a tendency to withdraw attention from the finer things that enrich the mind and soul.

The Rev. J. Leo Barley, archdiocesan director of music, supplemented Dr. Kindler's appeal and urged upon the educators the importance of inculcating love of beautiful and cultural things as a means of developing love for the spiritual. Esthetic development, he pointed out, is an aid to spiritual development.

Malton Boyce, organist of St. Matthew's Church, presided, and John J. McMahon, barytone of St. Matthew's Choir, sang several selections.

Miss Nickette McMullen, chairman of a committee to arouse interest in the orchestra among the parochial and private schools; Miss Mary McQuade, and Sister Frances Helen, superioress of Immaculata Seminary, cooperated in the program. Because of Immaculata's interest in music and art, Sister Frances Helen is giving the support of the seminary to the symphony movement.

A reception, during which tea was served, was conducted in the Immaculata parlors following the regular program.

President Attends Church, Then Cruises on Potomac

Seven Girls From School Where Mrs. Roosevelt Taught Among Guests on Sequoia; Business Put Aside for Day by Executive.

(Associated Press.)

Cruising in summer-like weather, President Roosevelt yesterday so enjoyed a leisurely holiday down the Potomac River that he put off returning to the White House until two hours after nightfall.

The start of the cruise aboard the Government yacht Sequoia was delayed until afternoon. The President attended church during the morning, listening to a sermon referring often to him.

Other churches also held observances in his honor. Quickly then he changed clothing and left the Executive Mansion without waiting for luncheon. Both that meal and dinner were served aboard the yacht.

Spanish midshipmen aboard a training ship which is tied up at the Washington Navy Yard, the Sequoia's base, snapped rigidly to attention and then cheered the President on his departure.

The sun, shining through a light haze, had enough summer in it to make the cool breeze on the river refreshing to the Presidential party.

The White House kitchen staff held culinary arrangements subject to change without notice, for Mrs. Roosevelt informed them that the time for return was tentative.

In the party, in addition to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, was their son, James Roosevelt, and his wife. Others included Miss Marguerite Lehand; Louis M. Howe, Capt. Walter N. Vernou, the White House naval aid; Mrs. Malvina Scheider and seven girls from the Todhunter School in New York, where Mrs. Roosevelt once taught. They were the Misses Jane Holmes, Adelaide Moffett, Peggy Ladds, Inez Alexander, Betty Cooke, Joan Strahan and Jean Gibbs.

The Sequoia tied up at Mount Vernon and Mrs. Roosevelt took the students through George Washington's old home. The yacht went several miles beyond Indian Head, Md., before it turned back toward the National Capital.

The President did not leave the Sequoia until it again reached the Navy Yard. He went down the river last Sunday, but with him then was Ramsay MacDonald, British Prime Minister, and they spent most of the time in conference below decks. Yesterday the President had what was perhaps the longest period of complete daytime relaxation he has enjoyed since becoming President.

COURTS SUSPENDED BY IOWA MILITARY

Guardsmen Seize Four More Suspects as Leaders in Disorders.

LeMars, Iowa, April 30 (A.P.).—Suspension of all civil courts in Plymouth County, effective tomorrow, was ordered today by Col. Glenn C. Haynes, commander of the National Guardsmen on duty in the county, as a result of farmers' riots.

By the order, the authority of the district, justice and police courts was suspended indefinitely.

The order was relayed by Haynes after receiving authority from Maj. Gen. Matt D. Tinley, of the Denison sector, and was decided upon as a result of a conference between Tinley and State officials at Des Moines.

Maj. H. B. Rew, staff officer of the National Guardsmen at LeMars, said it was his understanding that under the order prisoners arrested in connection with the disorders would be tried under a military court martial. This point, however, was not decided definitely.

As the military moved to tighten the grip of authority, rural pastors made pleas for the parishioners to respect the law. But at the time farmers clustered in churches for regular worship, 40 National Guardsmen ploughed through muddy roads in Army trucks and arrested four more suspected leaders of the disturbances that resulted in establishment of martial law for Plymouth County.

Cardinals Attend Vatican Ceremony

Vatican City, April 30 (A.P.).—Many cardinals and high prelates, together with thousands of the faithful, attended the beatification in St. Peter's this morning of venerable Mary Euphrasia Pelletier, founder of the Sisters of the Good Shepherd.

This order has branches in 41 cities of the United States devoted to caring for and protecting young girls.

This afternoon Pope Pius went to St. Peter's with the cardinals to venerate the new blessed. He knelt for some minutes before a large portrait of the French religious worker and prayed. Then he assisted at the benediction of the sacrament and finally imparted the apostolic blessing.

6-YEAR-OLD CHILD FOUND STRANGLED

Throat of Missing Kansas Girl Bound With Own Jumping Rope.

Bonner Springs, Kans., April 30 (A.P.).—Her neck bound tightly with her own jumping rope, the body of 6-year-old Nadine Vogel Love, of Kansas City, Kans., was found in a clump of woods a mile north of Bonner Springs today.

The girl disappeared April 20 while en route to her home from school. She was a first grade pupil.

The body was found by three men hunting mushrooms.

The men, Charles Hagler and Charles Fink, Chicago railroad welders, and Clyde South, a Bonner Springs barber, first came upon the child's hat. Farther on they found her body, fully clothed, hidden in a brush copse.

Dr. E. D. Williams, Wyandotte County coroner, said he believed the child was the victim of a degenerate.

Estimating she had been dead ten days, Dr. Williams said indications were her assailant had attacked her. Death, he said, probably resulted from strangulation. Dr. Williams announced a complete examination will be made tomorrow.

He said the condition of the child's clothing and tracks left in the leaves indicated she had been dragged 40 feet at the end of the rope.

The body was identified by the girl's grandfather, T. T. Quisenberry, and an aunt, Miss Ruth Quisenberry, both of Kansas City, Kans.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Carl Love, wife of a laborer, was prostrated with grief at her home. Nadine's father, Adolph Vogel, divorced from Mrs. Love, is a shoemaker living in Omaha, Neb.

Search for the girl had been carried on unremittingly by Kansas City, Kans., police and by county officers, augmented by citizen volunteers and Boy Scout troops. Hundreds of Boy Scouts combed the countryside about the city all day yesterday.

The girl was seen alive the afternoon of April 20, as she was skipping rope on her way home. A classmate said she later entered a motor car. Persons in the neighborhood of the school reported to police a strange man had been loitering near the building.

County officers and police today pressed their hunt for clews to the abductor and slayer with renewed vigor.

Dough Gone

Girl,6, Makes Fast Progress Spending $130 Found in Home.

Yonkers, N. Y., April 30 (A.P.).—Bertha Deshefy will probably never know the answer to the question:

How long would it take a 6-year-old girl to spend $130?

Bertha got only as far as $110, with a time of four hours flat, when police intervened.

Robert Deshefy, contractor, left a roll of $130 in large bills in a conspicuous place in his home. Bertha found it. Out of the house she skipped with her "treasure" and launched forth on a candy and soda pop spree.

From store to store went Bertha. With most of her playmates in tow, they bought gum, candy, ice cream sodas and food until they could eat and drink no more. Then they started in on souvenirs, trinkets and toys. They were changing bills for coins and weighing themselves when police, called by a suspicious merchant, stepped in.

Detectives tonight were trying to learn whether any one had swindled Bertha out of any of her wealth.

Far East Problem Stressed in Report

Carnegie Endowment, in Annual Review, Also Raps Trade Curbs.

New York, April 30 (A.P.).—The Sino-Japanese controversy, disarmament and international trade barriers were held the most pressing problems affecting world peace in the annual report of Dr. James Brown Scott, of Washington, as secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, made public today.

The report was devoted principally to a review of the events in the Far East since September, 1931, efforts to bring about peace and the attitude of the United States.

"The governments seem to have exhausted their efforts under the nine-power treaty and the pact of Paris to bring about the peaceable settlement of the conflict in the Far East," this section concluded, "but there remains to the League of Nations further recourse under Article 16 of the covenant should the recommendations for settlement adopted by the assembly be not accepted by both parties to the dispute."

Warden's Convict Servants Depart

Man and Woman Leave on Same Day; Romance Theory Studied.

Jackson, Mich., April 30 (A.P.).—A housemaid and houseman, both trusties, employed in the home of Warden Harry Jackson, of Michigan State Prison, fled early today in the warden's automobile, and prison officials said they were uncertain whether to record it as a double escape or an elopement.

The woman is Cora P. Cannell, 36, sentenced in Detroit 14 months ago to serve 14 to 28 years for forgery, third offense. The man is Stanley Miezanka, 39, sentenced from Grand Rapids March 12, 1925, to serve from 5 to 15 years for breaking and entering.

Warden Jackson said he knew of no romance between the couple.

Manchukuo Trade Showing Increase

Japanese Consul, Baring Rise, Credits Results to Its Stability.

New York, April 30 (U.P.).—Improvement of commerce and industry in the new State of Manchukuo is indicated in foreign trade figures made public today by Kensuke Horinouchi, Japanese consul general in New York.

He attributed the increases, most notable during the last three months of the period, to establishment of peaceful conditions and growing confidence among foreign business men in the stability of the new government.

Imports of American commodities—chiefly iron and steel, petroleum, machinery and automobiles—gained 58 per cent, according to the report.

MACHADO FOES DENY PART IN DISORDERS

Oriente Clashes Result in Deaths of Ten and Four Wounded.

Havana, April 30 (A.P.).—Forces opposed to the administration of President Gerardo Machado today disclaimed any connection with four revolutionary disturbances in Oriente province which resulted in the death of ten men and the wounding of four others yesterday.

There were no further reports of disturbances from the interior today, lending strength to the government's contention that yesterday's disorders were isolated.

Meanwhile, however, police and army authorities made final preparations to prevent any possible disorders tomorrow on international labor day when official activity and business and industry will halt.

The four conflicts Saturday were at San Luis, Victoria de Las Tunas, Boniato and Songo. Of the dead seven were rebels, two Federal soldiers and the other the chief of police at San Luis, where the most serious disorder occurred. Of the four wounded two were rebels and two soldiers.

The rebels also disrupted rail and communications facilities, but those were all repaired immediately.

maintaining order while the president passed on the way to his automobile.

Senor Sanchez Cerro, he continued, was waving his hand and bowing to the crowd, when suddenly a man dressed in black approached his car, whipped out a pistol and fired. The officer declared he thought the man was approaching the automobile to cheer the president.

The president fell with bullet wounds in his chest.

An aid of the president, Capt. Beloya, and a number of the soldiers opened fire upon the assassin, killing him.

The cabinet, meeting soon after the president died, summoned the constituent assembly which chose Gen. Oscar Benavides, a former provisional president, to head the nation.

Killer Former Reporter.

Mendoza was shot and killed as he stood on the president's car while still firing at the executive.

He was described as 35 years old and a former newspaper reporter. Authorities said he was a member of the Aprista (opposition) party.

The cabinet declared a state of seige for the entire country immediately it convened after the attack on the president. It then called the congress into session and the election of a new executive proceeded.

The city was quiet tonight.

Assassination of President Sanchez Cerro, of Peru roused the Latin-American Diplomatic Corps last night to a buzz of speculation as to the possible effect upon the hostilities between Peru and Colombia over possession of the Amazon port of Leticia.

The United States had joined with the League of Nations and the other American republics in condemning the late Sanchez Cerro's course in the controversy. His government supported Peruvian nationals in the holding of a corridor in spite of recognition by Peru herself that Colombia, by the Salomon-Lozano treaty of 1922, had acquired permanent title to the territory.

YOUNG MAN SUICIDE AFTER MURDER OF 2

Shoots Self on Grave of His Mother; Father and Stepmother Slain.

Troy, N. H., April 30 (A.P.).—A suicide and double murder was disclosed today, authorities said, with the discovery of the body of William Mann, 23, on the grave of his mother in a village cemetery.

Deputy sheriffs, informed of the discovery of Mann's body, went to the home of his father and found the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Mann, young Mann's father and stepmother.

Coroner Arthur F. Weston said he believed young Mann had killed his father and stepmother and then had gone to his mother's grave and committed suicide.

Beside the body in the cemetery, police found a shotgun and a rifle. They said they believed the shotgun was used to kill the couple in the house and the rifle in the supposed suicide.

Owing to the condition of the bodies, authorities believed the shooting occurred some time last night.

The glass in a kitchen window had been broken by a shot. The police theory was that young Mann apparently fired through the window at his father and then entered the house and killed Mrs. Mann, who had been fired upon at close range.

Police said a friend of young Mann last night quoted him as saying he was going to do away with his father, who had upbraided him recently for his actions. Young Mann, they said, had served a jail term at Manchester.

The youth's mother died two years ago and his father remarried last October.

Three notes were found, two at the house and one in the cemetery, saying, "good-by." One of them said, according to police, "Oh, yeah, I know what they'll print."

Farley Eulogizes Bank Statement

Roosevelt's Declaration of Fiscal Policy Likened to Lincoln Address.

New York, April 30 (A.P.).—Postmaster General Farley tonight likened President Roosevelt's recent banking statement to Washington's farewell address, Lincoln's Gettysburg address and Wilson's pronouncements.

In a "President's Day" talk at the Broadway Methodist Episcopal Church, the man who helped to start Franklin D. Roosevelt on the road to the White House declared:

"Just as Washington's farewell address has become one of our national traditions; just as Lincoln's Gettysburg address has become one of our national gems of oratory; just as the phrases of Wilson have become bywords for our guidance, I predict that future generations will look back upon this Roosevelt banking statement as a declaration which marked the turning point in this depression."

Friends Do Honor To Calvin Coolidge

Justice Stone and Gov. Ely Are Among Those Paying Tribute.

Northampton, Mass., April 30 (A.P.).—Friends and neighbors of Calvin Coolidge who knew him in the homely surroundings that did not presage his ultimate ascendency gathered today in a little hall to honor the memory of the thirtieth President of the United States.

The former President's widow heard some of the great of the State and Nation once again bespeak the Nation's eulogy. She heard Justice Harlan F. Stone, of the United States Supreme Court, describe her own influence in the life of her husband; the Democratic governor, Joseph B. Ely, praise the qualities of the former President, and Stanley King, president of Amherst College, alma mater of the deceased, describe the former President's unabated love for the college of his matriculation.

The Rev. Albert J. Penner, pastor of the Edwards Congregational Church, who followed the former President to the bier at the grave where he rests in the little cemetery at Plymouth, Vt., delivered the invocation. The Rev. Thomas F. Cummings, pastor of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church of Northampton, addressed the gathering as a representative of the community in which Calvin Coolidge spent his young manhood.

ADVENTIST ADVISES SEX TRAINING WORK

Council Told It Would Be an Aid in Guidance to Good Citizenship.

A course in sex education included in the child training and Christian home-making program of the Seventh Day Adventist denomination, was advocated by Prof. A. W. Spalding at yesterday's session of the spring council at Takoma Park.

Prof. Spalding, secretary of the home commission, urged the adoption of the course, declaring, "If the young people were trained to understand their own bodies and the significance of virtue and morality they would also learn the necessity of becoming good citizens of the State."

Extensive Relief Work.

A total of 4,128 persons is being fed daily from soup kitchens and penny cafeterias operated throughout the Nation, E. F. Hackman, secretary of the home missionary department, reported. In welfare societies of the denomination more than 1,000,000 were helped last year, and 786,000 articles of clothing were distributed.

C. Lester Bond, officer of the young people's department, reported to the board that the 4,092 young people's societies have a membership of 87,012. Through these societies help was given to 608,116 persons in 1932, he said.

Missions in 141 Lands.

All mission stations operated by the denomination in 141 countries of the world withstood the effects of the depression and functioned throughout the year, J. L. Shaw, treasurer, told the board.

It was reported there are 135,000 lay members of the denomination in the United States and Canada, the vast majority of whom assisted in the circulation of 8,000,000 pieces of literature in 1932.

Yesterday's meeting was concluded by an address of Missionary W. H. Anderson, who spoke in the Takoma Park Church on his 38 years' experience in Africa.

THE THEATER LAST NIGHT

NATIONAL

"LAMBS' ALL-STAR PUBLIC GAMBOL." The Lambs Club presents its forty-second annual public spring gambol, an all-star musical revue, in two acts and 20 scenes, featuring De Wolf Hopper, Frank Crumit, Leon Errol, Joseph Santley, Charles King, the "Tasty Yeast Jesters," Smith and Dale, Charles Judels, Frederick G. Lewis, Percy Wenrich, Paul Althouse, Nate Leipzig and an ensemble and chorus of club members. Staged by Joseph Santley; orchestra under direction of Frank Tours, John McManus and Paul Lannin.

By NELSON B. BELL.

If you think the spirit of the theater is dead, you haven't seen a "Lambs' Gambol."

Not only is it not dead, but it is not even sleeping—as those who comfortably filled the National Theater last night will testify. For the first "Lambs' All-Star Public Gambol" to reach the Capital in something like a quarter of a century revealed a spontaneity, a zest and an all-round contagious enthusiasm that marked it as a thing distinctly and delightfully apart from the usual, touring "girl-and-music" show—a variegated, vivacious and virile entertainment that ranged the whole field of the theater from the ribaldry of burlesque to the sublimity of grand opera; from the dusky rhythms of the levee to the metric cadences of classic drama.

As the evening sped on, new personalities were greeted with acclaim, old friends were accorded tumultuous welcomes and as revered figures in the playhouse made their appearance there was found time to make clear the sentimental and deep-seated affection in which they are held by those whom they have entertained for more than one generation. It was a heart-warming and felicitous occasion, my fellows.

But beyond all that, it was a rollicking, roistering, riotous entertainment. The brief period allowed by a harried midnight hour for a recapitulation of all the meritorious items on the lengthy program precludes more than the sketchiest resume of what it was the audience paid so high a tribute of applause. The credits, perforce, must be bestowed by groups.

Following the "Star-Spangled Banner" and an overture of Sigmund Romberg melodies, then, came Frank Crumit, popular stage and radio artist and Shepherd of the Lambs, who combined a bit of song, jest and chatter with Percy Wenrich's piano playing before introducing the first of a long line of clever masters of ceremonies that included Leon Errol, DeWolf Hopper, straight as an arrow and as rich of voice as ever; Charles Judels, Charles King, Roy Atwell, John Wray and Joseph Santley, principally responsible for the form, the staging and the success of the "Gambol." As an almost silent partner in the inebriated buffoonery of Leon Errol, that incomparable souse, was Harry Short, well known on both stage and screen. All of these gifted players are specialists of the first water as well as accomplished enunciators of what the program will offer next.

The opening skit was "Let's Go 'Round to the Lambs," a clever introduction in three scenes, depicting the original formation of "The Lambs" in London, 1814, the creation of the Lambs' Club in America, in 1874, and the grill room of the present clubhouse in 1933. This was written by Kenneth Webb and served to introduce the full strength of the company.

"A Hollywood Honeymoon" was an audacious bit, also by Mr. Webb, played by Sam Byrd, who did yeoman's service throughout the eveing as "leading lady" of the troupe; John Litel and Harold Vizard. That, however, was chastely idyllic compared with the "At the Doctor's" sketch, likewise authored by Mr. Webb, and played by Frank Wilcox, Richard Tabor and Ross Hertz. This was pretty close to censorable—except that all the sketches were rendered innocuous by virtue of not being played by ambisextrous casts.

Frederick G. Lewis, eminent Shakespearean actor, has a splendid interval of serious miming in "The Heart of His Mystery," the tragic tale of an old-time actor who lives for a moment in the past. He was ably supported by a large cast, led by Brandon Peters and including our own Clifford Brooke.

The "beautiful dancing girls" are featured in "Pajamas," by Roger Gray and Percy Wenrich; "The Love of the Sea" and "Pale Moonlight," the latter also by Percy Wenrich.

Individual hits were scored by the distinguished gentlemen already named and those adept specialty artists, Smith and Dale, dialecticians, in "The Last National Bank;" Carlson, Bonham and Latham, the "Tasty Yeast Jesters" of radio; Nate Leipzig, master of sleight-of-hand and legerdemain, and Paul Althouse, Metropolitan Grand Opera tenor, who sang two numbers accompanied by Frank Tours—"O, Paradiso," from "L'Africana," and "When I Think Upon the Maidens."

Jack Smart, William R. Holbrook and John Hundley account handsomely for several of the songs, and in the "Spring in Paris," finale of the first act, a clever dance is executed by William R. Holbrook, Mercer Templeton and James Templeton.

If, inadvertently in the rush, mention of some important feature of the bill has been omitted from these hasty remarks, that also was good! In skimming back, this might be the excellent orchestra under its revolving conductors.

Mr. Santley suggested near closing that the visit of the "Lambs' Gambol" might become an annual occurrence in the Capital. That is a consummation devoutly to be wished.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL.

THAT rapidly rising comedy alliance that combines the attenuated antics of Mr. "Slim" Summerville, one of the more volatile and veteran of the cinema's continuing comics, with the flittery whimsicality of that pseudo-tragic comedienne, Miss ZaSu Pitts, exerts itself with a slightly stepped - up voltage on the screen of the Rialto Theater this week in a bit of crass flippancy known to the trade as "Out All Night." "Out All Night" has been described by an astute observer as "a vulgar but funny slapstick version of Sidney Howard's 'The Silver Cord,'" which would seem to be recommendation enough. But there are other respects in which this ribald comedy will appeal directly and with some forcefulness to the informed amusement-seeker. Principal among them is the presence in the cast of Miss Laura Hope Crews.

ZaSu Pitts

Although Miss Crews has not been prevalent either upon the stage, which for years she decorated with a brilliant personality and a striking beauty, or upon the screen, to which she has contributed indirectly in a wholly different capacity, her memory remains fragrant in many minds by virtue of her many fascinating performances in the brittle comedies of the late Henry Miller.

When sound and dialogue opened a wholly new field of activity and accomplishment to the cinema, Miss Crews, like the heroine of "Once in a Lifetime," was among the first to perceive the need of expert tutelage in the use of voice and speech among the players whose experience had been confined entirely to the silent pictures. It is to her development of latent vocal gifts in many celluloid throats, her guidance through the intricacies of reading and projecting lines and the thoroughness of her all-around coaching that many present luminaries of the screen are indebted for their places in the cinema sun.

And now Miss Crews comes to the screen herself in support of the slim Mr. Summerville and the fluttery Miss Pitts—what weird inversions of the accepted order are worked by old Father Time!—as the fussy, possessive mother, a role that serves to demonstrate that Miss Crews is sufficiently the artiste to convert her original part in "The Silver Cord" into straight and unadulterated farce and still make it both interesting and significant.

With that sublime indifference to custom and precedent that marks the inspired showman, Manager Hardie Meakin of RKO-Keith's comes to bat with the definite announcement that his next feature attraction, "Below the Sea," will inaugurate its engagement on Fifteenth street tomorrow morning.

This, take it or leave it, is just one step nearer the recent prophecy of this clairvoyant citadel of truth that, given time, the managers of our cathedrals of the gelatine drama would find ways and means of moving the opening days of their new programs completely around the calendared week.

This week, you will observe—or maybe not—celebrates the introduction of new bills on Friday, Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, leaving only Sunday, Wednesday and Thursday to be accounted for.

This is a dereliction for which there can be no reasonable accounting. There are seven first-run theaters and, as you may perhaps be aware, seven days in each week, which, by diligent application of the abstruse principles of higher mathematics, may be figured out to one apiece!

Afterthoughts on the week-end's pilgrimaging "about the showshops": Once again the newsreels are prolific in personalities really in the news. . . It is possible to see both the arrival and the departure of Ramsay MacDonald, premier of Great Britain, his demeanor upon leaving being the more inspiriting of the two. . . Former Premier Edouard Herriot also arrives. . . And former President Herbert Hoover receives the biggest outburst of applause of any of them, pinning medals on Boy Scouts out at Palo Alto. . . Anyhow, he kept our dollar up there. . . Mrs. Roosevelt and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins share honors at a recent hearing before a Senate committee. . . Senator Thomas, of Oklahoma, handsome and well-tailored, may be heard slurring his words in a talk on reflation. . . Not strictly personalities, but assuredly in the news, are the shots of the recovery of the main hulk of the ill-fated Akron and the contrasting views of the triumphant trial flights of the new queen of the clouds, the imposing U. S. Dirigible Macon. . . One of the most remarkable features of the work of Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians at the Earle is that they play all of their long programs week after week without a note of music before them. . . Take notice next time that there are no music stands on the stage when they play. . . Some of the Olsen and Johnson material could stand a trip to the cleaners, if it has not already been sent out from Loew's Fox. . . The "Orpheus in Hades" overture of Jacques Offenbach, also at Loew's Fox, has not changed one iota from the familiar work that has been played so often in so many picture theaters. . . It is Phil Lampkin's setting-up exercises that put it over for one of the soundest hits of the season, nothing else. . . He punches a mean bag directing this one!

This afternoon at Loew's Palace, 30 midshipmen and 50 enlisted men from the Spanish training ship, Juan Sebastian de Elcano, visiting Washington for a few days, will be guests of Manager Orangelo Ratto to view the Fox film version of Noel Coward's "Cavalcade." A special section of the loge will be reserved for the visitors.

Speaking of guests, approximately 3,500 Washington boys—the capacity of the theater—were entertained at Loew's Fox Saturday morning in celebration of the official opening of National Boys' Week. During the program, the Loew's Theaters Cadet Band tooted a batch of spirited roundelays and Harrison E. Howe, of the Washington Board of Trade, delivered himself of a few appropriate remarks.

Miss Dorothea Lewis, of The Post reviewing staff, is mildly irked because her descriptive adjective, "zestful," came out as a scarcely synonymous "restful" in her Saturday morning review of the Mask and Wig Club's production of "Out of the Blues," at the Belasco Friday night.

Dear Dot: You ain't see nothin' yet!

A tempest that bids fair to exceed the dimensions of any ordinary teapot seems to be in process of being whipped up as a result of the failure of Nino Martini to appear in the production of "Rigoletto" presented in the Belasco Theater a week ago last night.

The point on which the controversy hinges is that no announcement was made of the substitution and that since the performance no recourse seems possible for those who feel that, whether deliberately or not, they were defrauded. A communication under date of April 26, from one W. D. H., is typical. It is, in part, as follows:

"Dear Sir: I am a great admirer of the tenor, Nino Martini, whom I hear twice a week over the CBS radio network. It was, therefore, a source of great satisfaction when I saw advertised the fact that he was to appear in person at the Belasco Theater on the 23d instant in 'Rigoletto.' I secured seats and went last Sunday night to see and hear Nino Martini in that opera. . . . I was deeply chagrined and indignant to hear last night that it was not Nino Martini who sang, as everyone supposed. That it was a fraud, at least, in my case, is proven by the fact that I went to hear Nino and not the opera, although it happens to be one of my favorites. . . . No notice, printed or oral, was given the audience of any substitution and no programs were available. I heard several requests for programs and heard two ushers, or doormen, say the supply was exhausted. In an effort to secure some, I went to each floor and was finally directed back to the lobby. There I was informed that there had been no programs at all provided. The placards, using Nino's name, were, however, still outside the theater after the performance. . . . Most significant, I feel, is the fact that such substitution was concealed even from the critics, evidently with the hope that it would not be discovered."

Inquiry develops that the management of the opera and the concert bureau of the CBS each contends that its contract was breached. That, however, is a matter which, according to present outlook, will be determined by the proper authorities in due course.

All of which just goes to show what mischief can come of one Martini with a high bawl!

DR. MICHAEL URGES U. S. CALL ON GOD

Methodist Pastor Asserts Spiritual Aid Needed to Lift Depression.

Speaking on man's attitude toward God, the Rev. Walter M. Michael, minister of the Eldbrooke Methodist Episcopal Church, said yesterday in his sermon that America is in the plight in which she now finds herself because too many of us have missed God altogether and too many of us do not sense the need of God.

"Through all the ages in the world's history there have been times of discouragement and despair," he said. "It is a fact that all of us do strange things when disheartened. Already Congress has thrown out the Constitution, as far as they are concerned, and it is indeed fitting that the churches have been called upon to pray for our President, not only on this day, but in the coming days, that we may hold him up, so that through him God may bring about brighter days to our fair land.

"In these times of depression, when the spiritual tide keeps going down, until we reach the point of wondering whether there is a God and whether He cares, we ought to realize that God will not come to our rescue at the snap of a finger. We must have patience.

"Let us not forget God. Like our own fathers and mothers, whom unfortunately many of us are inclined to sidetrack and give last consideration to, too many of us want to put God off until tomorrow. Let us have our good times and enjoy life, but let every man attend some church and help his God help him."

Summer Camp Exhibit Will Start Next Friday

More than a dozen exhibits, representing as many agencies throughout the city, will be staged next Friday and Saturday under the auspices of the recreation committee of the Council of Social Agencies in Barker Hall Auditorium of the Young Women's Christian Association Building, Seventeenth and K streets northwest. The various exhibits will tell the story of and possibilities for attendance of either adults or children at summer camps in the vicinity of the Capital this year at small cost.

The event, known as Washington's first camp exposition, will not only present four definite programs on Friday and Saturday, but will be open both days to the public, that camp equipment and recreation facilities may be thoroughly studied by those interested in giving opportunity to old and young for summer recreation.

Clothing Stolen From Auto.

The theft of clothing valued at $90 was reported to police yesterday by James E. West, of 1214 Military road northwest. The clothing was stolen from his automobile parked near Fifteenth and L streets northwest, West said.

SCOTTSBORO TRIAL ATTORNEY SPEAKER

Leibowitz Declares Case Is Turning Point in Negro Life in America.

"The Scottsboro case marks the turning point in the life of the Negro in America," said Samuel S. Leibowitz, defense attorney, yesterday at the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, when he addressed a mass meeting of colored citizens, who later organized a Civil Liberties League as an auxiliary of the fraternal order of Elks.

Preceding his address, Sophia Menken, of the national Scottsboro action committee, had announced a meeting here Tuesday night to prepare for reception of 5,000 expected to march next Monday to present a petition to President Roosevelt in the Scottsboro matter.

Denies He's Communist.

In giving his history of the case, Leibowitz declared he was a Roosevelt Democrat and not a Communist. Asked by the International Labor Defense to take the case, he had done so, he said, more with a picture of Leo Frank in his mind than for any other reason, and only under stipulation that the court would not be used for spread of radical propaganda.

With reference to Judge Horton's action in postponing trial of other defendants in the case indefinitely, because "a Jew lawyer and Jew money from New York" would prove a millstone around the defendants' necks, he said:

"The prosecution is trying to get Sam Leibowitz out of this case, but they won't get this Jew from New York out of the case until hell freezes over—not as long as the picture of Leo Frank remains in my mind. I am aiming to strike a blow in Alabama not for the Negro alone, but for all downtrodden people everywhere.

Decries Violence.

"No violence is necessary on part of the Negro to accomplish the desired end—only united effort. This case can be won through the courts, as was the Crawford extradition case in Boston. It is merely a matter of holding on to the Federal angles of the case and standing on the backs of the South and its courts until they give in."

J. Finley Wilson, grand exalted ruler of colored Elks, introduced the defense attorney. Others who spoke were Judge W. C. Hueston, Col. West A. Hamilton, Thomas H. Walker, Elaine Luckett and Perry W. Howard, who presided and organized the Civil Liberties League.

Fritz Busch Accepts Season in Argentine

He will select his cast from the state and civic operas in Berlin and the Metropolitan in New York. Among them will be Lauritz Melchior, Danish tenor, who is well known in the United States, and Michael Bohnen.

HOWARD UNIVERSITY TO CHANGE SYSTEM

Dr. Flexner, Back From New York, Announces Cut in Future Program.

Dr. Abraham Flexner, president of the trustees board of Howard University, following a special meeting of the board, which concluded Saturday night at the Hotel Commodore, New York, announced the following readjustments of policy for the university administration:

The university will be organized, beginning with 1934-35, into a single undergraduate school known as the college of liberal arts; a single graduate school with organization and administration analogous to other schools and colleges of the university, with a dean at its head, and into five professional schools, medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, law and religion.

A final decision concerning discontinuance of the school of pharmacy was deferred until the fall meeting of the board. Courses in electrical engineering, civil engineering, mechanical engineering and architecture will be dropped at the end of the year 1933-34. The evening school, correspondence school and college of religion courses were directed to be dropped at the end of this year, the school of religion to continue as a graduate school only.

To Drop Quarter System.

The quarter system now in vogue will be dropped at the end of the present term, the academic year for all departments will be divided into semesters hereafter. Summer sessions will be discontinued. During the next year readjustments will be made in academic courses, except those dropped, with a view to the least possible inconvenience to students already matriculated.

Such readjustments will be referred to a committee on instruction and research, which shall act after conference and consultation with the president of the university and the present deans of the college of liberal arts, education and applied science. Courses in education and home economics will be offered in the college of liberal arts as undergraduate major subjects preparatory to graduate or professional study in these fields. Courses in music and art will continue as at present for the next year, a special committee of the board being assigned to study readjustment of these courses to the graduate and undergraduate schools.

Students to Get Credit.

Students next year will be permitted to meet bills on an installment basis to be determined by the executive committee of the board. A committee of five was directed to be appointed to consider establishment of a basic salary schedule for officers of instruction and administration, to report its findings with recommendations to the fall meeting of the board.

A university policy was adopted to continue employment of as many as possible of the present teaching force. budget requirements and compulsory retrenchment being met by reduction in salaries rather than through dismissals. Where departments of study have been discontinued, an effort will be made to absorb elsewhere in the university teachers of those departments. A permanent policy of employe tenure was also adopted by the board.

3 SUNDAY MOVERS CITED AT BETHESDA

Capital Lawyer Is Indignant at Charge Filed Under Old Blue Law.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 8706 Georgia Ave., Silver Spring, Md. Telephone Shepherd 2363.

Shades of the old Puritans must have chuckled yesterday when three Washington men were arrested on the ancient charge of Sabbath breaking at Bethesda, Md. The men gave their names as H. C. Kearns, 1447 Fairmont street northwest, and G. P. Minor and M. D. Shear, both of 800 Delafield place northwest.

Forced to vacate his Washington home before today because his lease had expired, S. H. Horn, a Washington lawyer, had enlisted the aid of the three men yesterday in moving his effects to his new home on Dorset avenue in Somerset. He had been unable to obtain movers Saturday, Mr. Horn said.

The three men were arrested on warrants sworn out before Justice of the Peace Alfred Wilson, of Bethesda, by LeRoy Weber, of Somerset. They were released on bond to appear May 8 in County Police Court at Rockville, Md.

Weber told reporters that he was not a member of any church and refused to give any reason for his action in swearing out the warrants. He said he did not know any of the principals in the case. Horn was indignant at Weber's action and said he would contest the arrests in court. The law provides a penalty of from $5 to $25 for violations of the blue law, which has been on the statute books since the early days of the Republic.

Woodside Orators Praise Roosevelt

Support of President Is Urged at Services in Montgomery.

Support of President Roosevelt was urged in addresses by Montgomery County officials at a President's Day celebratoin held yesterday at the Woodside School, under the auspices of the Montgomery County Band. Pastors of nearby churches also participated in the services, which drew a crowd of several hundred.

Speakers were State's Attorney Stedman Prescott, Miss Lavinia Engle and Odorion W. Roby, county delegates to the Maryland House of Delegates; Lacy Shaw, president of the Montgomery County Commissioners, and Albert Browning, president and manager of the band. Ministers who offered prayers were the Rev. Ralph D. Smith, pastor of the Woodside M. E. Church; the Rev. J. Wesley Loftis, pastor of the Silver Spring Baptist Church, and the Rev. Melvin E. Lederer, pastor of the Burtonsville M. E. Church.

The pledge of allegiance to the flag was led by scouts of Troop 209, with patriotic and religious hymns sung by the gathering and selections by the band interspersing the speeches.

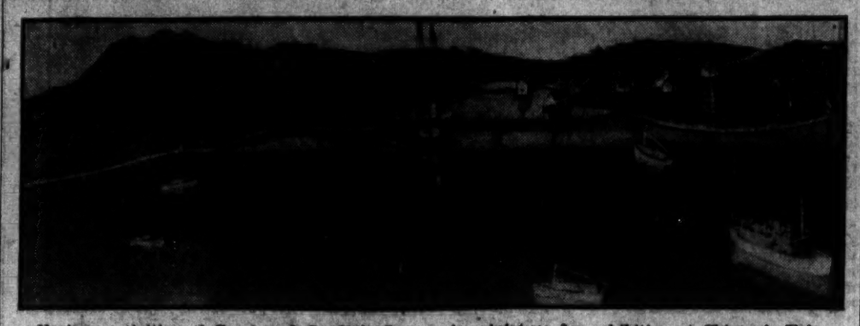
The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY



Various activities of Coast and Geodetic Survey in miniature for exhibition at Chicago's Fair.

THE Coast and Geodetic Survey has prepared for exhibition at "A Century of Progress," World's Fair, Chicago, an interesting model showing the various activities necessary to produce a marine chart. This exhibit is a relief map of an ideal coastal country with a foreground of water area.

That part showing the land is appropriately modeled to represent a terrain of hills and valleys covered with trees and vegetation, and there are also shown roads, railroads, a village, docks and a breakwater. The activities of the bureau are shown by the model ships, buoys, triangulation signals, all appropriately modeled and placed in correct position on the model. Some of the activities shown are triangulation, topography, launch hydrography and wire drag.

In connection with triangulation, which is the fundamental control of charting, the portable steel towers used, which run as high as 150 feet, are faithfully modeled in miniature. There is shown in connection with topography a miniature topographic party mapping the shoreline and other features along the coast.

An outstanding section of the exhibit is the model of the wire drag, developed by the Coast and Geodetic Survey to locate hidden dangers of very small extent. In Alaska such equipment has located pinnacle rocks as high as the Washington Monument.

In all, there are fifteen different activities modeled, making a very interesting display of the various duties of the bureau.

After due ceremonies the tapping committee will take charge at the festivities of the Trowel Club this evening at 1032 Connecticut avenue, Mark H. Burnham, Interior, president says. DURING the war we used to read of the big spring drives.

Frankly, it looks like a new spring drive is here. Commerce statements, which recently were pessimistic, now are filled with hope, of news of demands for commodities and wheels of trade grinding, perhaps a bit slowly, but accelerating.

From across the waters comes news that the shoe trade is booming in England, according to Trade Commissioner Walter B. Hertz, London.

South Wales will operate a new anthracite mine, says Consul Stillman W. Wells, Cardiff, Wales.

Spain plans a tractor factory at Trubia says Trade Commissioner Charles T. Hohenthal, Madrid.

Poland is shipping a steady flow of ready-made clothing abroad, says Trade Commissioner Gilbert Redfern, Warsaw.

Britain lays a five-year plan to abolish slums and thus provide employment for many, says Trade Commissioner James Somerville, jr., London. American cities could take note in their renovising campaigns.

Sao Paulo, Brazil, will have a modern airport, says Assistant Trade Commissioner Randolph F. Butler.

A government subsidy is aiding German building trades, says Consul Sydney B. Redecker, Frankfort-on-Main.

Mexico's business continues to improve.

Independent dealers' tire stocks lower and must be replenished.

We might continue on. Things do look brighter. Nations are getting on their feet. They can talk debt payments better. There'll be more money rotating. There'll be less talk of taking the heart out of Government employes and their pay checks. July 1 may be a bright day.

Farmers are borrowing less for 1933 production. Farm price index figures are highest for five months, up three points. Wool growers expect 8½ cents more for their product. Farm buying power is up and you can't have recovery without that.

Maybe it's recovery that's "just around the corner."

Navy Department Branch, Federal Employes Union, No. 2, will hold its monthly meeting at the headquarters of the local, suite 604, 710 Fourteenth street northwest, today, at 8 p. m.

Of current interest to Navy Department employes is the question of practices and usages, even after the best minds have spoken. We have been interested in study of the Government Printing Office's revised style manual, the first, we understand to appear since 1924.

There are instances where one might offer exceptions in the list of compounding words. "Heart-rending" is hyphenated. "Heart sickening," on the other hand, is made two words. The tendency seems to be to combine words where two nouns are used to form a common meaning, thus: Headphone, headwork, hairbrush, lockbox, lifebelt, oilcloth, poundcake, polestar, porkfish, and many others.

The tendency to eliminate the hyphen in such words as wigwagger, wiredrawing, woodworking, townheaded, townsfellow, trackwalker, also is apparent.

Capitalization is one of the most important phases included in the 302-page volume. When "the avenue" is written, avenue is "down," or small "a," unless it refers to Pennsylvania avenue, in the District of Columbia, when the "a" goes "up," or is capitalized. A few more observations:

St. Elisabeths is written without the apostrophe.

Residents of Northern States are northerners, not Northerners.

Senators are members of the upper House of Congress, not Upper.

Twentieth century is not treated as a proper name.

The interjection O is always capitalized. Others are not.

Proper names long enough in everyday usage have dropped the capitals, as in roman type, brussels sprouts, venetian blinds, plaster of paris.

The revised edition is a handy book to have within easy reach.

Assisting George H. Carter, Public Printer, in revising of the text is the style board and the advisory board. These men are on the style board:

H. B. Barnhart, superintendent of printing, G. P. O.; Roscoe E. Baber, assistant foreman proof section, G. P. O.; M. E. Bullock, foreman proof section, G. P. O.; V. M. Giffen, foreman, proof section (night), G. P. O.; William Graf, copy editor, G. P. O.; E. A. Huse, night production manager, G. P. O.; Frank W. Kihlbom, proofreader, G. P. O., and W. A. Mitchell, superintendent of planning, G. P. O. Those on the advisory board are Henry D. Hubbard, assistant to the director, Bureau of Standards; Alice M. Ball, office of Historical Adviser, State; Bernard H. Lane, editor, Geological Survey, Interior; Frank D. Smith, assistant chief of publications, Agriculture, and Webster P. True, editor, Smithsonian Institution.

JUST received latest copies of the National Rural Letter Carrier, all dressed up in colors and they're something snappy. One issue's cover is in silver. The whole magazine has been remodeled, better grade paper, type faces revised and the whole issue is easy to read.

Two features stand out. The questions and answers, wherein a rural carrier can learn quickly and clearly answers to his problems. "Around the Corners of Washington," by Martha, is a chatty section of real merit. Best wishes and continuance of the letter carriers' established publication in its new dress.

What do you think of daylight saving time as a habit for summer? Other Eastern cities already have shifted over.

You remember we had daylight saving (some put an "l" in saving) here a few years ago. And they called it "Ragtime." Some were on, some were not so on.

When you made an appointment with a friend you had to make it clear whether you meant 7 o'clock, or just 7 o'clock.

As Mr. Roosevelt comes from a daylight saving State will he think we should switch over or let time take its course?

We hear many Government employes favoring daylight saving, because they say it means they can have most of the afternoon for recreation, gardening and the like. But now that the Monument swimming pool will be provided with no water, at least that source of pleasure will be junked.

Others maintain that Government employes have been kidded enough on pay cuts and the Democrats' headsman's ax, and why tamper with the timepieces. They say their worries over fixed charges in the family budgets pale the importance of clock hand changing into mere unimportance.

Just now, they say, they are counting "time by heartthroba, not as mere figures on a dial."

In the long run it pays to get stumps and stones out of the fields so that it will be possible to operate machines more efficiently, says George R. Boyd, agricultural engineer. To emphasize the point, Mr. Boyd tells of blasting out a pine stump on a Mississippi farm several years ago. After the blast he found fifteen plow points stuck in that stump and in the roots around it.

A MAN sitting in church got to thinking of the rather battered hat that was his Sunday one. Out of the corner of his eye he thought he saw an advertisement in the church paper, "Good hats a quarter." That was real encouragement. So he took a more careful look and found that his wish had warped his vision. What the advertisement really said was, "God hates a quitter!"

ANTIDUMPING LAW ASKED BY SUBURBS

Nearby Counties Move to Hasten Improvement of Roadsides.

Improvement of roadside conditions in Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties is to be sought through antidumping laws. The Prince Georges law has authorized the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission to place a fee against all persons who collect garbage or trash for hire and dispose of it on the dump.

The antidumping act, not being an emergency law, does not go into effect until June 1. No action has as yet been taken to carry out the provisions of the new law, according to T. Howard Duckett, chairman of the sanitary commission.

The Montgomery County antidumping law, more stringent than the Prince Georges act, prohibits the importation into the county of trash, garbage and other waste materials, from other counties, States or districts, except for fertilizer purposes. The measure was introduced by Delegate George L. Edmonds, who acted at the request of the county health officer.

Fruit and vegetable stands, a new type of highway eyesore, are being studied by the National Parks and Planning Commission with a view to their partial eradication. Two courses of action studied include requiring of owners to obtain a permit for a temporary stand, to be removed in six months, and to make it mandatory that structures of this sort have fireproof walls.

Billion-Dollar Public Building Plan Urged

(Associated Press.)

A billion-dollar public and private construction program to be financed through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation or other governmental agency was advocated in a statement yesterday by the American Construction Council.

Meanwhile issuance of a $25,000,000 credit for secondary financing of new small house construction was proposed to the Reconstruction Corporation by E. M. Barton, of New York City, representing a number of organizations having to do with home building.

draw. The loans were made to 492,662 farmers.

For the purchase of home loan bank stock, the corporation paid $31,820,000 to the Secretary of the Treasury. Other loans to farmers, totaling $103,886,000, have been made by the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation with Reconstruction Corporation funds. Of this total, which was lent to 73,746 borrowers, $2,998,517 has been repaid.

Loans for relief purposes have been made to 41 States and 2 Territories, and they total $232,527,748. Virginia has received $3,408,395, and Maryland $153,530. This money will be repaid by deducting money paid by the Federal Government to the States for road construction purposes.

For advances for self-liquidating public works, the corporation had advanced $23,000,000 in cash on April 22. It had also agreed to buy bonds to finance other such construction projects.

The R. F. C. has disbursed $3,001,475 to finance the orderly marketing of agricultural commodities and live stock, and of this amount $505,021 has been repaid.

Banks and trust companies were the largest borrowers from the corporation in the ranks of private business, having received nearly half the total amount lent to this class. Railroads came next, having received $335,809,572 and returned $20,278,173.

The corporation lists 65 railroads as borrowers. Of the amount borrowed, $22,849,124 has been repaid to States and the Federal Government as taxes. Virginia has benefited to the extent of $2,047 by these tax payments, while Maryland has received no tax payments made from R. F. C. loans.

Mortgage loan companies have received $129,188,284 from the corporation, while building and loan associations have borrowed $104,788,810. The mortgage loan companies had returned $15,759,068, and the building associations, $18,475,277, when the statement was made up.

Other loans ranging from $500,000 to $85,000,000 have been made to insurance companies, Federal Land Banks, live stock credit associations and other agricultural credit agencies. Amounts ranging from 10 to 50 per cent of these sums have been returned.

Search Continues In Freight Wreck

Bodies of Two Men Found; Officials Believe One Still Is Missing.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 30.—With the bodies of two Negroes recovered, crews of the Baltimore & Ohio were still working late today to clear up ten carloads of coal to make certain no more than the two men were killed in the derailment and pile-up of 35 cars of eastbound freight at Sir Johns Run, 30 miles west of here, yesterday afternoon.

Three of the four tracks covered by the wreck were cleared this morning for movement of traffic. Officials were inclined to think there might be at least one other body in the wreckage.

The five injured, three at a hospital here and two at Berkeley Springs, W. Va., were recovering. Both the dead and injured were train riders. A card found on the body of one of the Negro dead carried the name of Bud Williams and a Plainfield, N. J., address. No progress was made toward identifying the other Negro.

MARYLAND STARTS BIG ROAD PROGRAM

Highways From Capital to Bay State Resorts Get Particular Attention.

The Maryland State Roads Commission will begin an extensive road improvement program this week, giving particular attention to highways from Washington to bay resorts.

Projects include a 2-mile extension of the southern Maryland boulevard, construction of shoulders on the road between Chesapeake Beach and Mount Harmony and the laying of concrete approaches to the new steel and concrete Patuxent River bridge, just below Marlboro.

Grading has already been begun on the southern Maryland boulevard extension, under the supervision of Engineer Joseph Channey. The boulevard, opened in 1930, cuts 6 miles off the old Mount Zion route. Following the general direction of the Prince Frederick and Solomon's Island road, the extension will eliminate many of the curves in the present road.

Tar will be applied within a few weeks to three new gravel roads in rural Prince Georges County, one leading from Silesia to Fort Washington, another from Marlboro to Ritchie and a third extending from Croome.

A concrete road is under construction from Kolbes Corner on Central avenue toward Defense Highway for a little more than a mile. Work on a macadam road from Huntts Corner, Oxon Hill, toward Fort Foote, will be started this week. It is about a mile in length.

Retreatments of the road from Ritchie to Central avenue and of two portions of the Livingston road are also on the program. Twenty-five miles of shoulder laying is planned in St. Marys County.

MOBILIZING INDUSTRY.

The United States seems to be moving definitely toward national control of industry and production. A few months ago such a thought would have been considered fantastic. But events of the last few weeks have turned many level heads to the proposal for re-creation of the War Industries Board or some other agency clothed with sufficient authority to regiment industry for a forward movement.

A committee has been named by the National Association of Manufacturers to promote the idea at the White House and in Congress. It is already under consideration in the Cabinet. Industrial leaders wish to have the antitrust laws set aside for the period of the emergency. They seek power to fix prices through regional agreements, and to force industry into action in accordance with a nation-wide scheme of economic rehabilitation. Presumably the plan would involve loans to industry from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Industry would rely upon the restoration of purchasing power and a rising price level for sufficient profits to repay its loans.

Apparently this is the answer of industry to the 30-hour-week bill and the inflation measure. American industrialists are emphatically opposed to limiting hours of work by law and to the extension of bureaucratic control over wages. The effect of such compulsory restrictions would be to perpetuate deflation and small scale activity. When the threat of inflation and debasement of the dollar is added to these prospective handicaps to business expansion, the outlook becomes extremely gloomy from the business man's viewpoint.

What is needed is the resumption of activity, not restrictions that will make the depression level normal. But so long as these uncertainties afflict business, in addition to the threat of tariff revision, how can activity be restored? Events of the last few weeks lead directly to some arrangement to force industry back into the harness under a national planning authority. It is not to be supposed that industrial leaders are enthusiastic about the idea of giving up their freedom. But industry would rather be coerced by an emergency board made up of its own directors than be strangled by arbitrary laws, to be crushed by inflation or to die by paralysis.

At present it appears that an emergency industrial board may become necessary. The administration has launched a policy of coercing agriculture into prosperity, of compelling the Federal Reserve Banks to force credit into the financial system, of forcing the railroads to coordinate their activities, and of imposing restrictions upon wages and hours of work. It may take the next step and mobilize industry for this emergency period. Certainly that is the direction in which the administration is moving.

An emergency board would be preferable to petty restrictions by law. No statute can be made to cover all working conditions in a country so large and diversified as the United States. A law would be restrictive, while an emergency board could handle each situation with a view to restoring industrial activity. A regulatory law on hours of labor and wages would establish a bureaucracy, while a board would be a temporary agency.

Creation of an emergency industrial board, however, would not be without its dangers. The Council of National Defense worked smoothly because the nation was united in a great conflict. Its activities were naturally suspended when the need for them ceased. The present situation is quite different. A system geared to regimentation might not work out satisfactorily in time of peace, and there would certainly be difficulty in terminating its activities. Yet some coercive plan may be the only means of protecting workingmen and industries against the uncertainties that have been created by other experiments.

THE YOUNG FORESTERS.

The success of the Conservation Corps, recruited from the idle young men of the cities for work in the National forest reserves, seems destined to depend largely upon the question of maintaining discipline. From various stations where the men are being assembled and given a preliminary training and hardening in preparation for the rough work they will have to perform, come reports that large numbers have been released because of complaints of homesickness and appeals from parents, while others have unceremoniously deserted.

If this condition exists during the first days of enlistment, while the novelty of camp life in the woods is still fresh, there is foreseen the probability that the drudgery and lonesomeness of the daily routine in the forest will pall on many more. The greatest difficulty encountered by the military officers in charge of training is that, while the men are enlisted with a six-months' contract to work for the Government and are being organized on semi-military lines, there are no regulations under which discipline and respect for the enlistment contract can be enforced.

The men are not subject to service punishment for breaches of conduct, or even for desertion. The men who are being aided in this way have not been doing work of any kind, let alone hard, manual labor, and they have been entirely free from restraint or discipline of any kind. It is not surprising that many of them will find it difficult to accept the rigors of the new life of hard labor for subsistence. They were getting along before with some kind of living without work.

It has been suggested that, since punishment is taboo, interest in the forestry work and good conduct be stimulated by a reward, such as increased pay for deserving effort. It is clear that if these young men are to be kept contentedly on lonely jobs in remote places, various forms of sports and amusements must be provided for the hours of rest that will have to be filled in. In the final analysis much will depend upon the ability of camp managers, not only to interest the men in their work, but to obtain obedience and maintain discipline.

PHILIPPINE CONFUSION.

President Manuel Quezon, of the Philippine Senate, is returning to Manila after having spent only a few days in Washington. He came all the way across the Pacific to see if there is any chance of having the Philippine independence act modified. A very short visit here convinced him that Congress will not take up the issue again and that the Philippine legislature must decide whether or not to accept the Hawes-Cutting act.

Senator Quezon continues to assert that acceptance of the independence act without change is out of the question. If a majority of the legislators at Manila are of the same opinion, the independence issue may be laid on the shelf for a considerable period. Obviously, the Philippines can not modify an act of Congress to make it more agreeable to them. It may be assumed that Congress will not be anxious to take up the issue again, if this measure is repudiated.

At present no meeting of minds between Congress and the Filipino leaders seems possible. There is a prevailing opinion in the United States that the islands should have their independence, but the Government is determined that they shall be prepared to maintain it. President Hoover vetoed the independence measure because it did not provide sufficient safeguards in this respect. The Filipinos threaten to repudiate it because it imposes, during the transition period, restrictions which they consider too severe.

A new independence plan has been evolved by Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, with the support of Senator Quezon and other leaders. It would permit "continuation of free trade during the interim period of four or five years" and "complete cessation of free trade after independence recognition, if the United States desires it". This scheme is utter nonsense. The motivating reason behind the independence movement in this country is Philippine competition with American farmers. Of course, the United States would levy tariffs against Philippine products after independence. The sudden transition of the islands from a free trade to an isolated status would mean economic paralysis.

So long as the Filipino leaders continue to present their requests for independence with so little regard for realities their case is hopeless. The United States will not give them a license to plunge the islands into economic ruin. If the Filipino people are as unreasonable on the subject as are Senator Quezon and Gen. Aguinaldo, it would be just as well for them to reject the Hawes-Cutting act and give up the idea of a divorce from Uncle Sam.

THE EUROPEAN ALIGNMENT.

The formal grouping of European nations into alliances, one side pledged to maintain inviolate the peace treaties and the other demanding revision, is adding serious difficulties to international conferences, and particularly to the effort to secure an agreement for reduction of armaments. There have long been rumors of a secret understanding among the revisionist advocates—Germany, Italy, Austria and Hungary. But before any acknowledgment of such a pact was made, France, Poland and the nations of the Little Entente signed an anti-revision agreement.

France had virtually recanted her informal approval of arms equality for Germany because of the sensational victory of Hitler. The evident reversion of Germany to pre-war militarism does not tend to modify the French determination to maintain its military supremacy at all costs. Ambassador Davis is reported to have disrupted a session of the Geneva conference with his demand that the question of security safeguards be postponed until after armament reduction had been decided. It is difficult to visualize France agreeing to such procedure. Her constant demand has been for assurances of French security as a condition of reducing her ability to protect herself. The present trend in Germany strengthens the French authorities in this course, and competent observers agree that this position has the strongest support of the French people.

Reports from Geneva credit Ambassador Davis with preventing the adjournment of the conference by the forceful assertion that the world is expecting and waiting for the adoption of actual measures of disarmament. This declaration was made more appealing because of Mr. Davis' assurance that the United States Government was studying what it might do to promote international security. Renewed discussion of a consultative pact at once turns upon whether the United States will join and whether this country would join in lending military aid to a state which is the victim of aggression.

Altogether the news from Geneva is not encouraging. Any attempt to force a disarmament agreement from France before she knows just what international guarantees of security she can count upon will fail. Ambassador Davis is wise in not defining the assistance that he hints this country may extend. The administration is showing a sympathetic interest in European and world problems. Many of them affect the United States with equal force, and there are many economic adjustments that, undoubtedly, can be made which will be mutually advantageous. But the line is sharply drawn between economic questions and American participation in the political and military troubles of Europe. American arms have assisted in the settlement of a European war, but the American people will never agree to be bound in advance to armed intervention in the quarrels of other nations.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

As authorized and requested by Congress, President Roosevelt issued the annual proclamation declaring that this first day of May is Child Health Day. Since the health and welfare of our children concern not only their parents, but also the nation at large, the Chief Executive calls upon all agencies public and private and all individuals having the interest of children at heart, to give earnest consideration this day to the needs of the young in their communities, to assist the constructive activities that promote the health and physical vigor of the youth of the nation.

It is a call that finds spontaneous and general response. Nowhere are there more varied or earnest workers for child welfare than are to be found in the District of Columbia. On this day the numerous agencies that are constantly vigilant to protect the welfare of the children of the Capital will cooperate to observe the day with fitting ceremonies. May Day as Child Health Day was inaugurated by the American Child Health Association in 1924, and five years ago Congress by joint resolution gave the day official recognition. The keynote for this year is "Mother and babies first."

The general committee reports that the past year has given remarkable evidence of the growing appreciation of the value of public health work. Even though the times have made it difficult to finance public health activities, they have as a rule been loyally supported, and even where the work was meagerly financed and understaffed, a gratifying spirit of solidarity has been developed among citizens, parents and public servants. As in school facilities and other indispensible provisions for the children of the land, there must continue to be the fullest support of the standards of public health.

British bankers can lend $114,000,000 to France, but paying the British debt to the United States carries no interest.

Now is the time for the reds to protest against the brutal soldiery that interferes with innocent Iowa mobs.

AVOIDING THE TRUTH.

By HARRY HIBSCHMAN, in Modern Thinker.

Every person called to the witness stand in this country is sworn to tell the "truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth." But the whole truth is the last thing in the world that he is expected or permitted to tell.

On the contrary, from the moment he opens his mouth until, indignant, bewildered, or disgusted, he leaves the stand, the judge and the lawyers for both sides, though from diverse reasons, join in keeping him from doing just that.

So far as the lawyer for the opposite party is concerned, the reason is natural and human enough. He exerts himself to shut out any testimony that might be harmful to his client. So far as the lawyer who called the witness is concerned, he strives to keep him from saying anything detrimental to his client, not merely because of the inherent harm, but also because there is an unreasonable rule of law that a party can not impeach his own witness.

By the mere act of calling him, he vouches for him. And so far as all of them, judges and lawyers together, are concerned, they are alike the victims of a system originally evolved to prevent a jury with its limited intelligence and power of discrimination from hearing more than an expurgated version of the facts at issue, a system that now, with the legalisms and superrefinements of several centuries of juristic reasoning, has become so extensive and so complicated that the law of evidence is one of the most important branches of our jurisprudence.

The law of evidence is, it may truly be said, a maze in which justice constantly wanders and in which all too often it is altogether lost. Applied to science or business its rules would be an insuperable barrier to progress.

JUST FOLKS

TULIPS.

The tulips are in bloom again,
As every passer-by can see—
A lovely sight of red and white
And bronze and purple pageantry.

Brave warriors of hope are they
Who nod and sway beneath the sun
And seem to say, "Let come what may,
Our duty here once more we've done.

"We shall not see the roses bloom
Nor long outlive the breath of spring,
But brave of heart we play our part,
Each one of us a lovely thing.

"What if in two brief weeks we pale
And to the changing season bow,
And row by row to death we go?
We have our share of glory now.

"Gaze on us, weary passer-by,
Enjoy our beauty while you may,
And like us give, the while you live,
Your utmost best to every day."

Few Would Learn to Dress Themselves If They Had Servants to Do It.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IN almost every family there is a martyr—usually the wife and mother, who finds her chief pleasure in service and self-denial; but in many instances the father or oldest son, driven by a sense of duty, or the last son or daughter, victimized by selfish and heartless superiors.

As a rule the martyrdom is self-made.

The husband and father, whose love is unwise, denies himself necessities in order to give his loved ones more than they need. He becomes a plow-horse.

His reward, of course, is ingratitude and a kind of affectionate contempt. Other members of the family accept everything he gives as their natural right. They take as a matter of course and give nothing in return. They develop the habit of ignoring him. They would be genuinely astonished if he attempted to interfere with their plans or began to spend money for his own pleasure.

The son or daughter actuated by a sense of duty becomes a similar drudge, serving without reward of gratitude—imposed upon, taken for granted—perhaps pitied a little as an old stick who seems to care for nothing but work.

If the "baby" of the family is the victim, he begins his service in adoration, continues joyously if given a word of praise, and ends as a family servant—a valet, messenger and general handy-man, expected to serve without pay and be content to help the others enjoy life.

Whoever the martyr may be, he has himself to blame. And the blame is heavy, for he does more harm than good.

It is human nature to impose on those who invite imposition. It is human nature to accept favors as a natural right when custom has dulled the edge of gratitude. It is human nature to regard as inferiors those who permit us to impose on them.

Thus the martyr injures those he would benefit. He spoils them. He teaches them selfishness, ingratitude, discourtesy, the habit of tyranny and a false conception of their own importance.

If he would save himself and those he serves, he must at any cost change his ways. He need not make a scene. Let him calmly and politely do himself justice and leave the others to pick their own cherries or do without. They will feel abused for a time, but they will learn to walk when the free horse is gone.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Arms Affect World Trade.
Kansas City Star.

The fact that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister MacDonald have taken part of their carefully hoarded time together in Washington to talk over the prospects of the world disarmament conference in Geneva again shows how tightly political and economic problems have become interlocked. As a matter of fact, it would have been practically impossible for them to lay plans for the success of the coming world economic conference in London, which is to promote the recovery of international trade by international action, without taking into account the outlook for the Geneva conference, which has been striving now unsuccessfully for more than a year to produce a general agreement for the reduction and limitation of all national armaments.

Less to Pay.
Louisville Courier-Journal.

In the promotion of good common sense in Government, there is much to be said for the use of adversity. The people of two counties up in Wisconsin have met with the depression, and as a result have come to the conclusion that they have been spending thousands of dollars of unnecessary money. The most effective remedy is likewise the simplest; consolidation of the two counties into one, with the consequent relief to the taxpayers from having to furnish the salaries of one whole set of county officers.

Biggest Step of All.
Red Wing (Minn.) Eagle.

Refinancing of farm mortgages through Government assistance will be a blessing not only to the farmers, but to the investors as well. Putting the agricultural house in order is going to be the biggest step the Roosevelt administration is to take in the rehabilitation of the economic structure of the country.

Tit for Tat.
Philadelphia Inquirer.

"The beer bill," says Fred R. Walker, assistant U. S. district attorney, "will not solve the prohibition problem." That's evening things up; prohibition didn't solve the beer problem, either.

And If It Kicked.
Macon Telegraph.

As we understand it, a 5-cent glass of that 3.2 brew would be more satisfying if it didn't cost a dime.

Highly Commendable.
Detroit News.

Another daylight saving scheme, thanks to Mr. Roosevelt, is not having to barge through seven and a half columns of presidential message.

Then Came November.
Macon Telegraph.

"We thought," says Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, "we thought we sent men to Washington to represent us (the drys)." And for a long time you did, lady; there's no getting around that.

If Billions Are Poured In.
Kansas City Times.

All sorts of amendments to the inflation bill were proposed in Congress to put more currency into circulation. The idea behind the efforts is that if only billions and still more billions are forced into use, prices will rise.

Experience has demonstrated the great danger of any such procedure. If the dollar is devalued the currency would still be attached to the gold standard, but if we begin to use printing press money the sky would be the limit.

A Subsidy for Silver States.
Kansas City Star.

Senators from the silver mining States induced the Senate to adopt an amendment to the inflation bill to make possible an artificial price for for silver. It is easy to understand why the silver producing States should be anxious to get such Government aid. But it is difficult to see why the rest of the country should acquiesce in a proposal to subsidize the silver mining industry at the expense of taxpayers generally.

A high pegged price for silver for coinage is no different from a high pegged price for other commodities. The experiment has been widely tried in the last few years on wheat, rubber, camphor, sisal and other commodities. It has been terrifically expensive and it has accomplished precisely nothing except to stimulate production and make matters worse.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Coast to Coast Highway for Motorists Needed to Replace Present Country Roads.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The $6,000,000,000 public works program will not be complete unless it involves the construction of a transcontinental highway for the purpose of connecting the East Coast with the West Coast. The present highway system is a series of connecting country roads, village streets and congested city streets, improperly graded and not suitable for fast cross-country motor travel. A highway not less than a four-lane highway should be constructed—a model, straight, concrete transcontinental highway that would not only connect cities, but the Eastern and Western coasts as well, for the amount of motor travel is increasing year by year, and this is an opportune time to begin work upon it.

Such a highway could start from Washington, D. C., following its meridian and going west, overpassing railroads and constructing new bridges over rivers and chasms, and tunneling through mountains at proper elevation, ignoring deviation for cities adjacent to which its passes. The Appalachian Mountains could be tunneled through at proper places, avoiding dangerous turns, and a new route could be selected through the Rocky Mountains. Such a highway is a national necessity and will bring the far places closer to home.

R. LEGRAD.

Gold Should Be Placed in Custody of Swiss Waiters Instead of International Bank.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: To David Lawrence's proposal that the gold of this country be transferred to Switzerland, Prof. A. Horzas Underbody, of Cornell University, has put forth the objection that after (and if) the gold arrived in Geneva, the Russian Soviet would come in airplanes and take it away. The professor's criticism is not constructive. Neither is Mr. Lawrence's reply wholly satisfactory. We can not derive much comfort from the fact that after such spoliation we could demonetize gold; nor from his second point, that the Japanese might get to Geneva before the Russians.

If it is really advisable to place our gold under Swiss guardianship, I may point out that there is a Swiss organization in New York known as "The Association of Swiss Waiters." I believe their headquarters are in West Twenty-fourth street. Our gold might be placed in the custody of that organization. They are a fine body of men, all holding good references, and are rather more athletic than the policemen of Geneva, with whom I was not much impressed when I attended the last conference in that city.

On the whole, many Americans cling to the belief that our gold will be as safe in Washington as any place else. HOWARD PITCHER OKIE.

Speaking of Broken Contracts by the Government, What About the Contract to Share Cost of District Government?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial in the issue of April 26 on "Breaking Contracts" brings to mind many other contracts which the Federal Government has broken. Among them is the contract with the District of Columbia. I hope to see the time come when a fair-minded Congress will give the District of Columbia the right to sue the Federal Government for the difference between the contract amount of the Government's share toward the upkeep of the District and the actual amount which has been donated (?) to the District. The amount, if recovered, would build the municipal group of buildings necessary for the proper equipment of the city, build the schools necessary to the proper care of the children, and generally, put the District equipment in a good financial and physical condition.

A few days ago I saw a statement that the Commissioners were to ask Congress for $6,000,000 toward the upkeep of the District. I respectfully suggest that the managers of the District have no right to ask Congress for any amount that is less than the contract amount.

Plenty can be said of other broken contracts, but this is enough for the present.

HARRY J. JACKSON.

Objects to Suggestion by Attorney General That Men Replaced for Political Reasons Are Incompetent.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a consistent defender of Government employes against unfairness I wonder if you will not speak out against the practice inaugurated by Attorney General Cummings of characterizing all employes dismissed to make room for deserving Democrats as "deadwood" and "inefficient?"

Every one recognizes that Mr. Cummings by reason of his long career as a politician is subject to claims for recognition on which he must make good. Also that he has the right to dismiss Republicans and inactive Democrats in order to take care of the workers in the last campaign.

But he has no right to disguise his legitimate use of the spoils system by characterizing as unfit the splendid organization that carried on so effectively under Attorneys General Stone, Sargent and Mitchell.

Many of these attorneys and other skilled workers must make other connections, and it is very unfair, if not, indeed, a slander, to broadcast over the radio and in the newspapers that they are all misfits and no account.

The Meanderer

Takes Shoppers From the Beaten Path Into Fascinations of Oriental Wares.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extention 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Wondering whether the American woman would enjoy shopping in the Chinese shops grouped on H street, the Meanderer ventured into several of these emporia. In two places conversational attempts with Chinese proprietors were failures. But in a third shop, the proprietor is well Americanized, and understood the Meanderer's eager inquiries.

"The things in the window that look like dark-colored strawberries—what are they?" the Meanderer asked first. "Litchi nuts, the most celebrated fruit of China," the Oriental replied. He said they cost 35 cents a pound, or were sold in cans for 35 cents a can.

Plants which the Chinese know as evergreen, not at all like the American idea of evergreen, may be grown in a vase of water or planted in the garden for the summer. The plants are thick-stemmed and have leaves much the shape of the lilac leaf. The Chinese evergreen is one of the most interesting of the shop's offerings and sells for very little.

Beautifully carved ivory pendants, which easily rival white jade, sell for $1 in this shop. Cigarette holders with intricate artistry in their carvings are 85 cents up.

A short, flat comb suitable for the purse or party bag has the shape of butterfly wings, is decorated with hand designing, and is offered for only 35 cents.

Three-piece, highly colored and pleasingly decorated metal cigarette sets, including cigarette box, match box and ash tray, are made to fit into each other so that the set takes no more room than the cigarette box alone. This set, in brilliant blue, Chinese red or one of several other colors, is $1.50.

Hand-made boudoir slippers, with all the gorgeous silk embroidery that they can accommodate, are among the most alluring things to be found in the shop. The slippers sell as low as $1.50.

Dolls—brilliant playthings for little Americans—are carefully dressed in correct Chinese fashion. The dolls are about 12 inches long, and sell for 75 cents.

Pink elephants, about as provocative as those in the popular song, are among the carved ivory bits that so numerously claim the shopper's attention.

Imported tea in delightful variety . . . Canton china in sets large enough for families . . . crisp rice wafers nearly as large as saucers . . . fans . . . gorgeous scarfs . . . and a legion of other lovely things await the shopper who investigates this Oriental corner of Washington—of which the Meanderer will be glad to tell you if you telephone or write, according to directions at the top of this column.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

Breakfast Appetite.

POOR appetite at breakfast often may be improved by causing the child to get up 15 minutes earlier and do some little task, preferably out-of-doors.

He can sweep the porch, take the dog out for his morning run, shovel snow in winter, or sprinkle the sidewalk in summer. If this is not possible, helping to set the breakfast table, running about to bring in the milk and the newspaper, putting his room in order before he comes down to the table may help.

When a child does not take readily to such tasks or has not been taught to do them cheerfully, the father of the family may cooperate by getting up a few minutes earlier than usual himself, and going through a daily dozen with him before open windows.

As helpful as exercises before breakfast is the attractiveness, variety and the atmosphere of the meal itself. Breakfast should be served at a table set as carefully as for other meals, with dishes not always and inevitably the same.

Not every breakfast room can have sunshine, but it can have an atmosphere that is its equivalent.

Adults should permit themselves no morning grumpiness, no nagging at manners, no unpleasant reminders about yesterday's misdeeds, if they want the finicky child to eat well.

A father who disappears behind his paper to emerge only long enough to gulp his coffee and cast a hurried glance at the clock is not a help.

Neither is the mother who refuses to sit down and eat properly, but dashes continually back and forth between kitchen and dining room.

Cheerfulness, friendliness and an unhurried atmosphere make the child eat better for the simple reason that they make him enjoy the breakfast hour.

What Today Means

By MARY BLAKE

"TAURUS."

IF May 1 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:55 a. m. to 9:15 a. m., from 12:20 p. m. to 1:30 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m. The danger periods are from 10:45 a. m. to 11:40 a. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9:15 p. m.

You will in all probability be inclined to be argumentative on this day and it will be not at all surprising if you have more than one verbal tiff with this or that person. Silence, in so far as it can be maintained, will indeed prove golden. Petty differences will arise between wedded ones and sweethearts.

The child born on this May 1 may look forward to a life unusually free from sickness and hardship. Difficulties, of course, will lie in his path, but he will overcome them easily. He will not rise to great heights; the high spot of his career will probably come in his middle twenties.

If May 1 is the date of your birth, you are a person who is possessed of a generally even temper. At times, however, you bluster about a good deal and on occasions rather rare you give way to a good outburst of temper. Quite likely you have a good speaking or singing voice. Facile and agile fingers are to be found in both sexes and it is not at all rare to find noted musical artists among them. The women are particularly adept in making things with their hands and much fancy sewing and embroidery is the result of their work. Both the men and women seem to have an instinctive understanding of animals; dogs and cats respond quickly to the attentions of these people.

If May 1 is your birthday, you are not quite as observant as you might be; you have no eye for detail or for color. You are a reticent person and you neither invite confidences nor do you confide in others. You have an active mind, you are intellectual and it is not at all unlikely that you will follow some literary line. You do not allow disappointments or unavoidable difficulties to disturb your happy outlook on life. You do not, however, bear serenely and without comment the trials and troubles that are forced upon you through the carelessness and stupidity of others.

Culbertson on Bridge

MASTERS OF BRIDGE.

HAROLD C. RICHARD, in his hours of business, is engaged as one of the financial leaders of New York City. He does, however, find time, after banking hours are over, to visit one of his favorite Bridge clubs, either Crockford's or the Whist Club, for a few rubbers of Contract. Recently, at Crockford's he cut as a partner with Walter Beinecke, with whom he has a very splendid partnership. The hand below was the first of the rubber:

South, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♡	Pass	2♣	Pass
2NT	Pass	3NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

The bidding of North and South follows quite generally accepted lines. North's hand is not strong enough for a Forcing Takeout, but it certainly is strong enough to raise partner's rebid of two notrump to three.

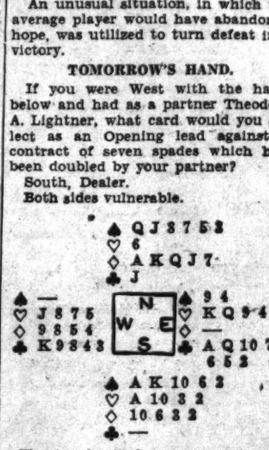
West's Opening lead was the spade Queen, which was won by South with the King. The success of the hand appeared to hinge upon holding the opponents to three hearts, as 9 tricks were assured, even losing three hearts and the club finesse. South, therefore, correctly developed the hand by leading the Knave of clubs. This trick was won by Mr. Richard with the King. At this time Mr. Richard paused to take stock of the situation. He was able to place the Ace of Spades and the King of diamonds in the South hand. Thus the only chance to defend was the highly unusual lead of the heart 5—the suit bid by the Declarer on the bare chance that Mr. Beinecke held a Ten—and that South would not discover the Machiavelian plot prepared for his discomfiture. The plan worked. South played the heart 2. Mr. Beinecke won with the Ten, and, entering into the spirit of his partner's splendid play, returned the suit and defeated the contract 1 trick.

An unusual situation, in which the average player would have abandoned hope, was utilized to turn defeat into victory.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

If you were West with the hand below and had as a partner Theodore A. Lightner, what card would you select as an Opening lead against a contract of seven spades which had been doubled by your partner?

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

TO provide more elaborate entertainment for morning audiences, WRC will inaugurate a new series of programs at 9:15 a. m. today, under the title of "Morning Parade." The series will be broadcast on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

"Morning Parade" will be a procession of melodies, soloists and comedians. The program for today presents a typical array, including the Rollickers quartet, Ray Heatherton, former vocalist with Paul Whiteman; Joe Biviano, whose agile accordian is heard on many programs; Sol Goichberg, mandolinist, and Loretta Sayre, songstress. An orchestra will be directed by David Grupp.

Three outstanding breeders of race horses will talk about Kentucky Derby winners over WJSV at 2:45 p. m. today.

Miss Elizabeth Daingerfield, for ten years manager of Man o' War; Col. Phil T. Chinn, whose horses from the Himyar stud have won more than $3,000,000 in the last ten seasons, and Hal Price Headley, owner of the famous Beaumont stud, are the three experts who will face the microphone. They will be interviewed by J. A. Estes, associate editor of the turf weekly, the Blood Horse. The breeders also will name their choices for this year's Derby, which will be run next Saturday.

The summer season of the Radio Guild will be inaugurated this afternoon with the presentation of "Engaged," a farce comedy by W. S. Gilbert, of Gilbert and Sullivan fame.

For the past four years the Radio Guild, under the direction of Vernon S. Radcliffe, has followed its winter series of adaptations of famous plays with a summer season of lighter comedies which have won great success in the past.

"Engaged," which will be heard at 4 p. m., E. D. S. T., over an N. B. C.-WJZ network, is a farce in Gilbert's best satirical manner.

A balanced cast of radio favorites will portray the leading roles in "Engaged." The marital mix-up revolves around Peggy Allenby and Alfred Shirley, abetted by Charles Webster, Wilfred Seagram, Harry Nelville, John McBride and Helen Claire. All were prominent in casts of the more serious Guild dramas during the regular season from October to May.

THE series of church choir programs initiated by the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church Choir, and being continued by the choir of the Church of the Epiphany tonight over WRC at 8:30 o'clock, is being well received. The broadcasts are sponsored by Griffith-Consumers Co., and feature representative Washington choirs. A number of churches have arranged to participate in the programs, among them the Mount Vernon M. E. Church, National City Christian Church and Sacred Heart.

The Epiphany choir will be under the direction of Adolph Torovsky, and the program he has arranged for tonight is as follows: "Holy, Holy, Lord God Almighty" (Stewart), "Jesus, Friend of Sinners" (Greig), "Glorious Is Thy Name" (Mozart), "How Goodly Are Thy Tents" (Macfarlane), "God Hath Appointed a Day" (Tours), "Hallelujah" (Beethoven).

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace will discuss the problems of the farmer and what the administration is doing to alleviate those problems. Secretary Wallace will be the fifth speaker in the Cabinet series of the National Radio Forum heard over WRC each Monday at 9:30 p. m.

Five different artists will occupy the five spots left vacant by the recess of the "Myrt and Marge" program.

Theo Karle, tenor, will take possession of tonight's niche; Gypsy Nina, a newcomer, will fill the fifteen minutes tomorrow with her singing and accordion playing; on Wednesday evening the tenor, Charles Carlile, will be heard; Arthur Tracy, the Street Singer, will sing on the Thursday program; Little Jack Little will bring the "soloists' week" to a close on Friday. The "Myrt and Marge" programs are heard over the WABC network but not WJSV.

The "Pageant of Colorado," for which Charles Wakefield Cadman wrote the music and Lillian White Spencer the libretto, will have its initial radio presentation during a broadcast over the WEAF network (but not WRC) at 8:30 p. m. The production, to be given by a large cast of actors and singers and an orchestra under the direction of Charlie Schuerman, will be broadcast from the studios of Station KOA, Denver. The pageant, set some 800 years ago, deals with the lives of the American aborigines, the Cliff Dwellers of Mesa Verde.

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT will speak during a special program in observance of Child Health Day, to be presented this noon, when the National Farm and Home Hour is broadcast over WMAL at 12:30 p. m. Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the Bureau of Home Economics, will preside.

Burton Holmes, eminent traveler and lecturer, will be heard in the first of a series of programs to be known as "Burton Holmes at a Century of Progress," over WEAF tonight at 6:15 o'clock (but not WRC). In his talks, Burton will explain the exhibits from all parts of the world which he has visited, and which will be on display at A Century of Progress Exposition.

The Schwaebischer Saengerbund, a chorus of 80 male voices, under the direction of Adolph Rehberg, will be heard in a special program of German songs over WMAL at 10:30 p. m. The chorus was organized in Chicago 45 years ago and has been under the leadership of Rehberg for the past ten years. Rehberg has been director of German choral societies in Chicago for 30 years and in 1924 he directed the Massed Chorus Diamond Jubilee of the North American Singers League.

Walter W. Head, president of the national council of the Boy Scouts of America, will speak on the Annual Boys' Week program to be broadcast over WJSV today at 2:15 p. m.

FLYWHEEL, SHYSTER AND FLYWHEEL are about to reopen their New York office, and Waldorf T. Flywheel, chief fixer, and his assistant, Emanuel Ravelli, are on their way East from Hollywood for that purpose.

Masquerading as Groucho and Chico Marx, the bum barrister and his spurious Italian helper, will take the air over WMAL tonight at 6:30 o'clock.

With the reopening of the New York offices of the firm, Leonard Joy and Mary McCoy, who were with the ambitious advocates during their first stay in New York, will be reengaged in their old roles of orchestra leader and Miss Dimple.

Clarence Darrow will inaugurate a series of programs tonight, presenting the reactions of Midwestern leaders of thought and industry to President Roosevelt's "new deal."

Mr. Darrow will be the first of the group of speakers who will "sum up the outlook for business in the light of the rebirth of confidence in the United States." He will speak over the WJZ network at 7:30 p. m. (but not WRC).

Another speaker during the series will be William F. O'Neil, president of the General Tire and Rubber Co., of Akron, Ohio.

A New Yorker At Large

By MARK BARRON.

NEW YORK—Vignettes of the town:

The night clubs are finding the going rough since beer gardens have been popping up like mushrooms. . . . Four of the town's most luxurious clubs have folded in the past fortnight, and the others are moaning they aren't taking in enough shillings even to keep the hat check girl in cake and caviar.

Poor Hat Check Girls.

With a lily in my hand and a crepe band on my arm, I weep for those poverty stricken hat check girls. . . . In pouring rain the other afternoon, I was hurrying across Seventh avenue in an effort to reach shelter before my own battered derby was ruined. . . . A smart, gayly colored roadster swept by so closely that it almost took the crease out of my trousers. . . . Looking up I saw that it was piloted by the red-haired pirate lass who has been holding patrons up for dime and quarter ransoms for years at my favorite Broadway club. . . . Makes a fellow think.

Burton Davis, who quit being a dramatic critic to hide himself in the country and write crime mysteries, has grown a Van Dyke beard. . . . Right after that the voters of his Connecticut hamlet elected him justice of the peace. . . . Maybe there is some connection between the two events; Davis isn't sure.

The opening of the season in Yankee Stadium found two familiar figures missing—Charles B. Dillingham and George M. Cohan. . . . For years they have been as regular as Lou Gehrig in showing up at the Stadium every day. . . . This year Dillingham is away somewhere, while Cohan is out touring with his show. . . . The latter is such a faithful follower of Col. Ruppert's boys, that he often cancels a matinee in order to take his whole company out for the game.

Vacation for Coward.

When Noel Coward closes his "Design for Living" in several weeks, he is going to take a year's vacation. . . . At least, so he says. . . . But, he said the same thing when he closed "Private Lives." . . . He did go away, then, for a long voyage on a freighter, but he spent most of his time writing. . . . As for the Lunts, Alfred and Lynn, they are planning to do "Reunion in Vienna" in London.

Chatting with several detectives on the Broadway squad, I find they are pleased with the appointment of James Dolan as the new police commissioner. . . . Under Mulrooney the morale of the police department has been better than it has in years, and it is likely to remain that same way under Bolan. . . . He and Mulrooney are much the same type.

Manhattars have a special affection for Mulrooney. . . . Not only did he do a fine job with his department, but, more than any person I ever met, he understood the real tempo, the feeling of New York.

Calgary Is No Place For Noted Pied Piper

Calgary, Alberta, April 30 (A.P.).—This is no place for a pied piper.

City officials say Calgary has been ratless for four years. In 1929, ten rats were rounded up and slaughtered and since then none has been seen.

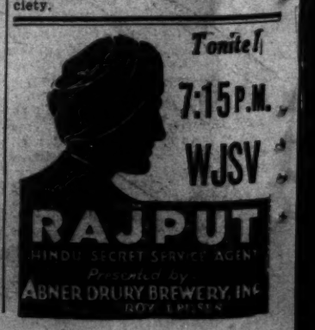
House Members Attend Washington State Tea

Members of Congress from the State of Washington and other officials were guests at a tea yesterday afternoon of the newly organized Washington State Society of the District.

The guests were welcomed by Capt. Emmett R. Carroll, formerly of Seattle, now with the Veterans' Administration, who is president of the society.



The Washington Post.

NATS BEAT A'S IN TWELFTH, 5-4; OFF FOR WEST

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THIS fellow Joe Cronin has gathered unto himself a fairish sort of ball club, apparently.

All that the Nats have done in the last two days is to come from behind and beat Lefty Gomez and Lefty Grove without any visible help from Heinie Manush who, man for man, figures to be the most dangerous of the hitters on the club.

The four-game winning streak that the Nats have achieved in the last four days, including two kayo decisions over the Yankees, was accomplished also without any assistance from two regulars, Buddy Myer and Earl Whitehill, who were benched for hitting—by League President Harridge. Sounds like the Nats may be going places in the northern section of the league standings this season.

Need Assistance Of Westerners.

The Nats have done very well for themselves in the hand-to-hand battling with the Yanks and the A's thus far this season, but unless there is some assistance forthcoming from the Western teams it will be a difficult matter for Washington to knock the Yanks off their present perch at the top.

Four times in five games the Nats have flattened the Yankees and four times in seven games they have trampled the Athletics to demonstrate their right to serious consideration when the pennant is the topic. But only the Nats have been able to beat the Yankees thus far, with Boston taking the co t four times from New York and Philadelphia dropping the same number of decisions to the Yanks.

Sterner Opposition Is Indicated.

Reports from the West indicate that the Eastern contenders are to encounter some sterner opposition in that sector starting with the invasion tomorrow, and a lot is likely to be learned about the pennant race trend before the Eastern clubs return home two weeks hence.

In contrast to the Nats' traditional weakness in the West, the Yankees and A's invariably mop up on their Western tours, but press dispatches telling of improved pitching by the Western clubs are heartening to the Nats, who have never received any assistance from other teams against the A's and the Yankees.

The secret of the Nats' success against the Yanks and A's in the East during the past few years has been the uncommon good pitching strength that Washington managers could marshal against their Eastern rivals, while there were few good pitchers in the West who figured to stop the strong Eastern clubs.

May Not Have Easy Sailing.

But with Cleveland boasting three clever pitchers in Ferrell, Hildebrand and Clint Brown; Chicago holding Ted Lyons, Frasier and Gaston in readiness; St. Louis having Blaeholder and Lloyd Brown available, and Detroit possessing Bridges and Sorrell, the Yanks and A's may not have as clear sailing this season. The Nats figure to do no worse than in previous years.

The only fly in the Western pitching ointment seems to be the scarcity of capable left t ers in the West. Cleveland has not boasted a good southpaw in years and neither has Chicago. The only two southpaws calculated to cause the Eastern clubs any trouble in the West are Elon Hogsett and Carl Fischer, both with the Tigers and Lloyd Brown with the Browns.

Cronin Does Well With Team.

Joe Cronin is doing more with the Nats this season than Washington fans have observed since the pennant days of '24 and '25. He has the boys not only eating, talking and sleeping baseball, but playing it as well. They're out there swinging and out there playing for Cronin.

Already the team has picked more alien runners off base this season than such enemy casualties totaled in entire seasons of the past. The pinch hitter and the steal and sacrifice are being brought into play with pleasing frequency. Cronin's decisions on relief pitchers have been beyond reproach. If the word is hustle, the club has it.

Giants Beaten Twice, Drop To Second

35,000 See Braves in Two Victories, 3-0 and 8-4.

Rookie Holds Visitors to Three Hits in First Game.

BOSTON, April 30 (A.P.).—The fast-traveling, league-leading New York Giants, making their initial appearance at Braves Field this season, were halted in their tracks twice today as the Braves scampered off with both ends of a double-header, 3 to 0, and 8 to 4.

The defeat of the Giants and Pitsburgh's victory sent the Pirates into the league lead.

A crowd of 35,000, the largest gathering in a Boston ball park in April for many years, watched the twin bill.

The visitors suffered a shutout in the opener at the hands of Ed Fallenstein, Maplewood, N. J., boy, pitching his first full major league game. The rookie limited the Giants to three bingles, two of them by Leslie, subbing for Manager Bill Terry, who is on the injured list, while the Tribe got to Carl Hubbell for six hits and gave him his first setback of the campaign.

Rabbit Maranville accepted eight chances in the field and drove in two runs.

Home Run Hit By Berger.

The nightcap, more or less of a free-hitting affair, saw six hurlers go to the mound. Wally Berger scored the second Tribal run with a homer in the first inning after Urbanski had drawn a base on balls, stole second and completed his jaunt to the plate on two outs. Bergers' blow, the only hit made off Spencer in six innings, was his third circuit clout in two days and his fifth of the season.

The Braves took kindly to the offerings of Herman Bell in the seventh, and continued the assault on Adolph Luque in the eighth.

Maranville also fielded brilliantly in the second game, in which the Giants outhit the Braves, 13 to 8.

A. A. U. Run Won By Lou Gregory

Paul Mundy Is Second in Championship Event at Newark.

Newark, N. J., April 30 (A.P.).—Lou Gregory, brilliant long distance runner of the 1932 United States Olympic team, won the National A. A. U., 20-kilometer championship run today, by covering the more than 12 miles through the streets of Newark in 1 hour 8 minutes and 15 seconds.

The Millrose A. A. star, from Ozone Park, N. Y., jogged into the lead at the fourth mile and never was headed by any of the 166 starters. Paul Mundy, of the Nativity Catholic Club, Philadelphia, came the closest to the winner, but his time was 1 hour 8 minutes 48 seconds.

Mel Porter, the New Jersey 10-mile champion who represents the Irish American A. C., of Newark, and Albert (Whitey) Michelson, another Millrose performer who also wore the United States colors in the last Olympics, staged a bitter duel for third place and finished in a dead heat. Their time, however, was more than two minutes slower than Gregory's.

BETHESDA A. C. WINNER.

Led by Crawford and Harry Best, the Bethesda A. C. defeated White Haven by a score of 14-11 yesterday. Crawford collected a homer and two doubles, while Best poled three triples and two doubles.

YANKEES WIN 2, AIDED BY HOMERS

Red Sox Lose Before 46,044; Ruth, One, Gehrig, Two.

NEW YORK, April 30 (A.P.).—The famous Yankee home run barrage and some able pitching by a pair of recruit moundsmen enabled New York to sweep its first double-header of the season today, defeating the Boston Red Sox, 11 to 2 and 8 to 3, before 46,044 Sunday fans.

Lou Gehrig hit a pair of homers in the opener, his sixth and seventh of the season. Babe Ruth walloped his fifth in the opening inning of the second clash and Tony Lazzeri followed with two more four-baxers.

Dodgers Beat Phillies In One Big Inning, 6-3

Brooklyn, April 30 (A.P.).—The Dodgers hammered the Phillies in one big inning today, to win for Owen Carroll, 6 to 3.

Taylor's double and O'Doul's home run led off in the sixth inning and overcame an early Philadelphia lead. After Holley walked Frederick, he was taken out of the box and succeeded by Liska, who proceeded to walk the next three hitters. Moore then relieved him. Two more runs came in on Carroll's single and another on a wild pitch. The Phillies rallied to fill the bases with none out in the ninth, but Watson Clark relieved Carroll and got out of the jam, allowing only one run.

MARYLAND TURF SCENE SHIFTS TO PIMLICO TRACK TODAY

Eight Races Scheduled Each Day

Preakness Again Features; Open With 2 Charity Days.

Pimlico Nursery Race Wednesday; Post Time 2 P. M.

THE familiar cry of "they're off" moves some 25 miles closer to Washington with the Maryland Jockey Club's meeting at Pimlico taking up where Havre de Grace left off. Today and tomorrow welfare programs will hold sway at the Baltimore track with the regular 13 days' racing to start on Wednesday.

The new deal in the sport at Old Hilltop will be the running of eight races daily, the steeplechase being known as the extra event, which will be held as the third, except on Saturdays, when it will be the first event.

Featuring the 15-day session, the first two of which will be devoted to charity, will be the $25,000 Preakness Stakes on May 13, the $5,000 Dixie Saturday and the $2,500 Pimlico Nursery on Wednesday, the first afternoon of the regularly scheduled 13-day meet.

$119,500 Available For Purses.

No difference will prevail between the welfare programs and the others, except that the overnight purses will be $700 instead of $800 and for the steeplechases $700 instead of $1,000. Many of the same horses that will run later in the meet will be seen in action on the days devoted to raising funds for the care of the needy.

Turfmen will receive $119,500 in purses, exclusive of the welfare days, on which $11,200 will be awarded. The daily average is a little more than $9,000.

Matt L. Daiger, secretary and general manager, believes indications point to a splendid all-round meet. He says that the Preakness will attract all of the best 3-year-olds capable of meeting each other, that the requests for reservations on that day have been as great as in the past, that the barns are filled and that sufficient steeplechase horses are on the grounds to run the races booked for them.

Weather Important To Meeting.

The weather will be a main factor in putting over the meet. Havre de Grace experienced during the first week rain and cold. Horses have shown form. Within a few days except in the juvenile races, the public will have a good line on what to expect.

The epidemic of coughing at Havre de Grace will prevent a number of stables from racing at Pimlico, but sufficient horses are on hand to assure large fields. This is the first time in years that such a malady has run through stables in Maryland.

Pimlico will be without New York opposition in the East until Saturday, when Jamaica will open. But even with the Long Island track in operation the sport here should not suffer.

John Ryan, track superintendent, has seen to it that everything is in readiness for the opening day. The track is fast, the steeplechase course and jumps in good condition.

Large fields are entered in all eight events. It was necessary for Frank J. Bryan, racing secretary, to shift around his program. The second, fifth and eighth races failed to fill. Two-year-olds will run in the first two races, while the fifth was split and the second half will run in the eighth.

The Neighbors, for Maryland stock, will be at a mile and seventy yards. It is the fourth race. The Linstead Steeplechase is for maidens and winners of one race.

Post time for the first race each day has been set at 2 o'clock.

Racing in Chicago Under Way Today

Exposition Park, Aurora, and Sportsman's Park Expect 15,000 Each.

Chicago, April 30 (U.P.).—The 1933 racing season will be inaugurated here tomorrow, with 18-day meetings getting under way at Exposition Park, Aurora, and Sportsman's Park, the Cicero half-mile track.

Aurora, under the new management of Joseph Cattarinich, of Montreal, and Robert S. Eddy, jr., of New Orleans, will operate as a member of the Illinois Turf Association. The Cicero oval is independent.

Crowds of 15,000 are expected at each track. A $1,200 inaugural handicap tops Aurora initial program. A similar race with a purse of $1,000 features the card at Sportsman's Park.

Slugging Bee Promised at Portner's

Huddick and Kimrey, Both Punchers, to Fight Tomorrow.

WHEN a slugger meets a slugger the fight fan usually gets his money's worth in punches.

That's what the Alexandria Day Nursery offers tomorrow night at Portner's Arena in Arthur Huttick, slamming New York light-heavyweight, and body slugger de luxe, and Dewey Kimrey, North Carolina's hopes for heavyweight honors.

This marks the first time Kimrey has been North for a fight. His manager, Lukie Tenner, has been in touch with Matchmaker Frankie Mann for two months in an effort to land his protege on a card here.

Kimrey was promised a shot at the first opportunity and told to keep in shape when the time came. When Marty Gallagher, Les Kennedy's conqueror, refused to meet the hard-punching Huttick—Marty decided it was better to be in the beer business—Matchmaker Mann went direct to Kimrey and offered him the shot.

The big Carolinian grabbed at the chance. So local fans will find a willing fighter anxious to make good against Jimmy Bronson's outstanding performer.

That Kimrey is a rugged youngster is evidenced by the fact that he cut up Les Kennedy badly a few months ago, forcing the former Pacific Coast star to lay off the ring for a month.

Kimrey has victories to his credit over Pat Hayward, Jef Carroll, George Neron, Big Boy Peterson, a four-round knockout over Ed Prante; three victories over Ad Warren and one over Frankie Wine.

The semiwindup and preliminaries promise action galore. Jim (Kid) Smith, Ralph Murdock's latest protege, will engage Baltimore Harry Groves in a six-rounder. Chief Perry Knowles, Seminole Indian, opposes Doug Swetnam in the main six-round preliminary.

A grudge match between Bob Lowry and Whitey Graham promises to be a hair-raising, bloody battle.

Espisido Dizon, Filipino importation, and Joe Maffei will get together in a four-round opener.

New Referee Sought by Garibaldi

Italian Is Firm in His Demand; Job May Go to Swann.

THE squawks emanating from Joe Turner's H street headquarters would lead one to believe that the wrestling professor is engaged in the poultry business, rather than the arm-bending field of endeavor. Squawks have been falling all around and upon genial Joe's ears, but he assures us it is nothing to grow gray over. It's only Gino Garibaldi brushing up on his Italian.

It seems that Garibaldi is displeased with the work of the local board of wrestling officials, namely, Ben Bortnick and Hurricane Burns. Both cramp his style and give unfair decisions when he is working, Gino claims.

Was Disqualified By Bortnick.

It was the olive-skinned Italian's vehement protest against Bortnick that induced Turner to name Burns as arbiter of the last bout between Ernie Dusek and Garibaldi. Prior to that, Bortnick disqualified him in a match with Frank Judson for kicking at the wrong time and in the wrong part of Frank's anatomy.

His return match with Ernie's younger brother only two days off, Garibaldi has served an ultimatum on the promoter that unless another referee officiates he will not enter the ring. Turner regards the affair as just so much bologna, but just to be square with the lad he has promised to do his best to please the plaintiff.

The problem boils down to a matter of selecting the man least objectionable to Gino. Charley Swann, who reappeared in his white duck trousers to umpire the semifinal bout last week may be assigned the task. He is highly efficient, which may be a little too much for Garibaldi.

Hearing of his opponent's protest, Mr. Dusek offered the suggestion that they have no referee Wednesday night. Just let him get in there and throw the irritable "Eyetalian" around a bit and then into the orchestra pit and there will be no need for a referee.

A good supporting card of four bouts has been arranged. Ladies with paying escorts will be admitted free.

Expiration of St. Andrew's Curse Is Seen by Sarazen

With 10-Year Jinx Ended, British, Open Champion Sees Successful Defense of Title; Exhibition Tour Called Training.

By DILLON GRAHAM.

ATLANTA, April 30 (A.P.).—Gene Sarazen has another hunch. The St. Andrew's curse, put on Gene in 1923, expires this year, and Gene feels he's going to be lucky in the British open golf tournament, played over that famous course in July. Sarazen believes in hunches and has been very successful in playing them.

While in England a decade ago he stopped at St. Andrew's on his way to Troon. He was invited to play the course, but refused. An old wind-scarred Scotch caddy warned him if he didn't play the ten-year St. Andrew's course within 10 years a mythical Scotch jinx would be on him.

CENTRAL IS UNDERDOG IN GAME WITH EASTERN TOMORROW

Injuries Hurt Hopes for Victory

Hale Logical Choice, But Sullivan May Take Mound.

Roosevelt and Tech Prepare for Game on Friday.

IT will be many days before the interhigh school pennant race is officially decided, but the leading contenders for the honors will be pretty well established after this week's games. Central tangles with Eastern tomorrow in the most important of the two, and on Friday Roosevelt goes to bat with Tech. Both games will be played at Eastern starting at 3:30 o'clock.

Weakened by the loss of five injured regulars, Central will be the underdog tomorrow, but how much of a favorite Chief Guyon's proteges will be remains problematical. Cliff Keyser, Don Raub, Shorty Chumbris, Bill Bryant and Lefty Chumbris are listed as casualties by Jack Ray, Central mentor, but it is significant that Raub and Keyser played against Emerson last Friday.

The Blue and White roster boasts a number of promising lads with a penchant for slapping the onion to distant parts of the lot, among them Messrs. Nau, Gregorio and Raub. On them will be the burden of the club's offensive.

Defensive Ability Demonstrated.

Eastern satisfactorily demonstrated its defensive ability against Roosevelt, and unless the Guyon machine collapses Central base hits will be few and far between. Of course, a lad by the name of Cleary had a part in stopping the Rough Riders. Cleary hurled the first shut-out game the series has produced in a number of years, limiting the opposition to five bingles.

Speculating on rival pitchers always is a fascinating pastime especially with Eastern figuring in the puzzle. Following an old Indian ritual, Guyon started Cleary when those brave and hardy fans who follow high school baseball looked for Cecil Hale to do the flinging. Last season Hale started against Central after it had been noised around that Dick Lanahan would foe the slab.

Hale is the logical choice tomorrow, but it would not be surprising to see young Joe Sullivan walk out on the mound.

Ray has Cowan, Silverman and Smith available with Cowan a step ahead of his teammates for the task. An easy-going kid with a good curve and nice change of pace, Cowan should carve a mark for himself before the carnival folds its tents.

HOUGHTON, THORN WIN CLOSE MATCH

Tomorrow is the deadline for entering the National Open sectional qualifying rounds slated at Manor on May 15. Entries should be filed with A. M. Reid, U. S. G. A., secretary, in New York. Crack contestants from Virginia, North Carolina, West Virginia, Maryland and a number of Southern States are expected here for the trials. The number of places to be allotted this section will be determined by the entry list received.

More than 100 women golfers from the District and a few from Baltimore clubs will tee off this morning at Chevy Chase in the 36-hole medal handicap tournament for the Mrs. Frank Royer Keefer Trophy. The event will continue through tomorrow, eighteen holes being on tap today.

Post entries, Mrs. Keefer announced, will be received at the first tee at 8 o'clock, and the tournament will be run off even in the face of a rain. Women will not be permitted to have outside caddies, and will tee off from the blue markers. Those not scoring better than 102 will be placed in a consolation flight the second day.

A number of interesting events are scheduled for Ladies' Day at Indian Spring Wednesday. In addition to a nine-hole target tournament, George Diffenbaugh, pro, will give a lesson in golf.

Mrs. A. E. Fisher, of Beaver Dam, almost scored her first hole-in-one Saturday while playing with Mrs. Ora Emge, club champion. On the 190-yard seventeenth hole she hit a beautiful drive plop into the cup, but the ball danced out, and rested on the lip of the cup. The deuce enabled her to break 100.

Seventy-six proved the winning number in the selective handicap tournament for Argyle Club members. Winners were:

Maj. A. C. White, 96—20; L. L. Williams, 96—20; E. L. Kilby, 96—20; A. E. Willmett, 86—10; G. A. Sevan, 104—28—76, and Morris R. Cooper, 89—13.

George Jacobus, P. G. A. president, will address the Middle Atlantic professionals at Chevy Chase this morning at 10 o'clock.

Young Leather Pushers Prep for Tourney

Pictured above are a group of young men industriously training at the Boys Club for the forthcoming Junior Golden Gloves Tournament. Approximately 100 boys are expected to participate.

Sarazen-Kirkwood Due Big Welcome

Golf Pros Meet Houghton and Thorn in Charity Match Sunday.

A rousing welcome awaits Gene Sarazen, American and British open champion, and Joe Kirkwood, renowned trick shot expert, when they arrive next Sunday to meet Al Houghton and Arthur B. Thorn in an eighteen-hole at the Keenwood Golf and Country Club for the benefit of the unemployed.

The nature of the reception depends on the method of travel used by these two famous professionals. If Kirkwood and Sarazen come by coach, a delegation will meet them with automobiles somewhere outside the city and escort them to Kenwood. Should they arrive by train, the plans will be altered and the reception in their honor will be held at the clubhouse.

Royce Hough, Kenwood committee chairman, is busily engaged in preparing to handle a record gallery. Club members have been pressed into service, while the Junior League girls have agreed to handle the sale of tickets.

NATS CRUSH MACKS IN TWELFTH INNING

and Rube Walberg was pitching three-hit ball when the A's went into the ninth with their 4-2 lead. A walk to Sewell with one out and two pitched balls to Pinch Hitter Moe Berg convinced Manager Mack that Walberg had outlived his usefulness for the day, and into the box strode lean Lefty Grove to smoke the Nats out with his fireball, although he had worked against the Red Sox on Saturday.

Cihockis Error Helps Nationals.

Grove completed the base on balls to Berg started by Walberg and was in a fair way of retiring the side on a double play when Cihocki permitted Bluege's grounder to sift through his glove out into center, while Sewell scored from first and Pinch Runner Rice went to third with the tying run.

With Manush up and only an outfield fly required to tie the score, Heinie popped a foul that the wind carried out of Foxx's reach, and the Nats received a new lease on life only to see Heinie pop the next pitch to Higgins for the second out.

The developments thus brought Goslin to the plate in the Nats' dying gesture and Goslin wound himself into a fancy pretzel as he missed the first pitch. But he didn't miss the next, which skidded over second base hell-bent for glory, while Rice came home with the deadlocking tally. Cronin provided the third out with a pop to Cochrane.

Manager Cronin gave the game unto the keeping of Bill McAfee after the ninth and against McAfee the Athletics were extremely unathletic. He permitted them one hit in the tenth when Bishop singled, but after Cramer sacrificed, McAfee fielded Cochrane's grounder and Bishop was erased in a run-down.

The A's made another bid in the tenth when Bishop singled with two out and Cramer bounced a hit off Boken's glove, going to second, when the young second baseman threw into the dugout while Bishop reached third. But Boken then came up with a clever stop and throw on Cochrane's grounder for the decisive out.

McAfee's Slow Balls Puzzling.

McAfee's slow stuff was keeping him out of trouble in the extra innings as he caught the A's off balance with a clever change of pace. He was the third of the Nats' pitchers, Al Thomas having twirled the eighth and ninth. The Nats were outhit, 8 to 12, but who cares?

The A's had picked up a run in the fourth on Johnson's single and another in the fifth on Cramer's double and the Nats tied the score in the sixth, when a single by Kuhel and a double by Sewell followed the second of Schulte's three walks.

But in the eighth the A's scored two unearned runs when an error by Johnny Kerr was followed, after two strikeouts by a heap big double by Bob Johnson, the A's Cherokee left fielder, who sent Heinie Manush back to the left field wall, where the ball bounced out of Manush's one-hand clutch. It looked like the ball game, but the ninth followed the eighth and the twelfth followed the ninth.

BOXING BITS Hereabouts

LES KENNEDY, Jimmy Erwin's Old Maestro of Maul, who leaves soon to help train Max Baer for his impending match with Max Schmeling, is perhaps as familiar with the Baer club as any one in the profession. He has fought Baer twice, winning one and losing one, and has helped train the Livermore Butcher boy for a number of important fights.

And Les thinks that Baer is a great fighter, who has found himself. He tells about the time, energy and brains that have gone toward making the California playboy a great or near-great fighter. As one instance, it seems that Max was once fairly easy to hit with a left hand. So they sent Kennedy in with instructions to keep shooting lefts, talking to Baer all the time and cautioning him to "hold his right high" every time he shot a left. In time, Max worked out an almost perfect defense for a left. Max has been as carefully coached in every department of the game, with the result that he is now a very good boxer instead of the willing, but awkward fist slinger that once campaigned with indifferent success among the heavyweights.

Baer is a notoriously heavy hitter, particularly with his right hand, and no one yet seems to have been able to hit him hard enough even to make him back up. Kennedy trained Baer for the Schaff fight, in which Baer scored a perfect knockout just two minutes before the final bell. Baer was slow starting in this fight, and did not get going until the tenth and last round, as he had been training 14 and 15 rounds in preparation for his 20-round bouts for Jack Dempsey at Reno.

Les says that Baer personally is just exactly what he has been characterized—a big, overgrown kid, who is perhaps too fond of practical jokes. He says one never knows what is coming next from Baer, and some of the "ribe" hurt a little too much, but then, what can one do about it to one of the best heavyweights that ever stepped in a ring?

While admitting that Schmeling, always a grand fighter, and now a great boxer, is a hard man to beat, Kennedy is certain that Baer's body punches will wear the German down to such an extent that Baer will have little difficulty scoring a knockout in the latter part of their 15-round bout June 8. At any rate, Kennedy will probably have a nice, sizable little wager riding on the California cut-up.

Steward to Open Title Race Today

G. P. O. and Investigation Meet on East Diamond at 5 o'Clock.

Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes and editor of the Federal News, weekly publication of the organization, will throw out the first ball today as Bureau of Investigation and Government Printing Office open the 1933 Departmental League campaign.

The game will start at 5 o'clock on the east diamond of the Ellipse, and Steward's heave is expected to inaugurate one of the bitterest Federal title races in years. Five teams—Investigation, Government Printing Office, Agriculture, Union Printers and Federal Unionists, have been granted franchises.

Neither the Sleuths nor G. P. O. both clubs depending on tried and has shifted personnel to any extent, true material, but the remaining league members have bolstered considerably from players formerly with Repair Shop, Treasury, Commerce and Naval Hospital, which have failed to organize teams for the current year.

Eddie Colliflower and Tony Rosser are expected to form the Sleuth battery, opposed to the crafty Bobby Lyons and hard hitting Jules Sorrell.

Penn Records Better Than Drake's

11 of 18 Events Show Advantage for East.

NEW YORK, April 30 (A.P.).—With some assistance, at least, from the weather man, the Penn relays for 1933 gain a clear-cut decision over their Midwestern counterpart, the Drake relays, in the annual check-up on comparative performances.

Of the 18 events in which comparison can be made, times and distances in 11 were better at Philadelphia than they were at Des Moines.

Of the ten individual events appearing on both programs, the Eastern games produced better performances in the high jump, pole vault, shot put, hammer throw, javelin throw and 120-yard high hurdles, although the Penn relays' edge in the shot put and hammer throw was so small as to be all but indiscernible. In the hop, step and jump, the 100 yard dash, discus throw and broad jump, competitors in the Drake relays were well ahead.

The Eastern games held a 5-to-3 edge in the relays, with faster times in the half mile, the mile, 2 miles, 4 miles and distance medley while the Drake relays led in the quarter mile, sprint medley and shuttle hurdle relays.

The biggest margins in the relay comparisons appeared in the distance medley, the mile and 4 miles. Manhattan won the distance medley at Philadelphia in 10:14, bettering the listed American record, while Indiana's winning time at Des Moines was 10:20.4. Penn's quartet, even with Bill Carr on the sidelines, was caught in 3:17.2 for the mile against 3:19 for Michigan, the winner in the Midwest. The 4-mile title at Philadelphia went to New York University in 17:45.4 against 18:11.9

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

LLOYD A. CALKINS, 37-year-old Wichita, Kans., cripple, weighs but 49 pounds. He is unable to walk, can not even sit at a desk, and has only slight use of his hands—yet he is a successful business man. He has been at his desk in the Calkins Bros.' realty offices without missing a business day for eight years.

In his office Mr. Calkins lies on his desk, a pillow at his head, the telephone at his mouth, with the receiver in a special holder at his ear. In this manner he can converse with prospective customers and business associates. Crippled since babyhood, Mr. Calkins has fought his way over many obstacles that would break the ordinary man. Nor does Mr. Calkins feel sorry for himself. Philosophically he observes:

"I don't feel I am badly off. I have good health, my eyes to see with, my mind to think with and my soul to live with and protect."

Cayenne pepper is made from the capsicum plant, a plant that thrives in several tropical lands. Although it is named for the Island of Cayenne, that district furnishes a negligible amount to the world.

* * * *

Deep-rutted, muddy roads, common in Argentina, made necessary the building of wagons with wheels of immense size. The wheels stand about 10 feet high, and on top of this the wagon box is built—the whole thing reaching a height up to 20 feet.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

WASHINGTON BRAIN TRUST.

DIFFICULT to run a nation?
Don't be silly! Not at all—
If you have an aggregation
Of professors at your call;
When the problems are perplexing
And my head is in a whirl
They seem never very vexing
To Ray Moley, Feis and Berle.

II.

Are our institutions skidding
Toward a high and rocky brink?
It is nothing; at my bidding
I have thinkers who can think;
I have Tugwell, I have Myers,
Mordecai Ezekiel, too—
Thinking never, never tires
Them no matter what they do.

III.

Does the country look quite groggy?
Is it punch-drunk, black and blue?
I avoid all thinking foggy
And my worries soon are through;
For I set a buzzer buzzing—
In comes Moley on the run,
And with very little fussing
Soon the miracle is done.

IV.

When the Nation writhes in pain must
There be aid without delay?
Presto! Watch my magic Brain Trust
Work a cure right away!
Wotta man is Dr. Moley!
Dr. Tugwell, too, is grand—
I depend upon them wholly
When there's wonder work at hand!

V.

Are there matters economic
Which distress a weary world?
With an ease almost symphonic
All the answers are unfurled
By Ezekiel and Myers,
Tugwell, Berle and Dr. Feis,
And not one of 'em perspires
In his mental labors wise.

VI.

What to do about the dollar?
There's a problem deep and wide;
"Oh, professors!" I just holler,
And they canter to my side.
"Work this out," I murmur sweetly
While I lunch or while I sup—
They work out the answer neatly
Without even warming up!

VII.

Congress? Well, there's such a body—
So, at least, I've often heard—
But the thinking there is shoddy
And I give those boys "the bird;"
Moley, Tugwell, Berle and Myers,
Goldenweiser, Feis, I raise—
When the cosmos flares with fires
They out-think the blooming blaze!

EXCHANGE RATES.

Prime Minister MacDonald says all he asks of us is a "cooperation of hearts and minds rather than a business alliance or a bargain." But at the rate of exchange, we give Europe our heart and what do we get back? Liver!

What will they use in this coming inflation, regular gas or ethyl?

Elmer Twitchell says that rubber checks now and then were to be expected, but he never expected to see the day when we would be using helium money.

Newark's new health director is named Dr. E. W. Ill.

CAPITAL EXPECTS MILD MAY DAY, BUT POLICE ARE ALERT

Close Watch Will Be Kept on Two Parades in Case of Trouble.

No untoward May Day demonstrations are expected in the Capital today though strong police measures have been provided in overseeing two parades scheduled in observance of International Labor Day.

A morning parade of purported Communists will have the District Building as its disbanding point and committees will then attempt to see the President and the District Commissioners and protest in connection with the Scottsboro case and demand unemployment relief.

At the White House, recognition of the child health theme of the day will be made at 10 o'clock in the morning when a group of local children will call at the Executive Mansion and present Mrs. Roosevelt with a basket of flowers.

First Lady on Air.

At 1 o'clock the First Lady will broadcast a May Day appeal over a Nation-wide hook-up. Throughout the day children's clinics at hospitals and other points will be open and unusually active in observance of the day. An extensive program of children's games and exercises has been arranged for schools and playgrounds.

The main parade of the day is to begin at 11, and is to be staged by the Washington Unemployed Council, under the sponsorship of the Communist Party of America, the Young Communists' League and the International Labor Defense.

The procession is to begin at Eighth and Rhode Island avenue northwest, proceed south on Eighth to M street and thence to Peace Monument by way of M street, New Jersey avenue and First street northwest. The parade will then move up Pennsylvania avenue to the District Building, where it will disband. About 400 are expected to take part.

Second Parade.

A second parade, declared to be sponsored by the Socialist party, will begin at 8 p. m., and will form at John Marshall place and C streets northwest. The destination of this line of march, expected to comprise 300 persons, will be the Typographical Temple, near Fourth and G streets northwest. The route will be as direct as possible. At the temple a meeting will be held, with rent evictions the subject of discussion.

Ample details of uniformed policemen and plainclothes men have been assigned by Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, to supervise the May Day parades.

May Day ecents will keep tots, teens and parents busy this afternoon at all of the play centers under the direction of the District Playground Department.

Parents Invited.

Beginning at 1:30 p. m., small children will demonstrate special exercises and group activities which form a part of playground work. Parents have been invited and will confer with playground directors anent child health measures. The small children's observance will close with kindergarten activities symbolic of May Day dances and recitations.

From 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. the older children will engage in a comprehensive program. League games in baseball, schlag and official athletic button tests will start the activities off.

Following the athletic events, the buttons will be presented and folk dances and other older children's group demonstrations will close the day.

FINE SPRING SHOW FOR CAPITAL FOLK

Weather, Trees and Flowers Combine to Attract Nature Lovers.

Appetites for spring spectacles still unappeased, Washingtonians yesterday joined with thousands of visitors in flocking to park and highway—including the ball park—and seasonal blossoms, nourished by balmy weather, reciprocated by putting on a splendid show.

Double cherry blossoms around East Potomac Park drive were still in fair fettle and the popular motoring ground was alive all day with traffic. The tulip display was at its best along the river and invited much comment.

At numerous spots throughout the city foliage and flowers were aglow with their spring plumage. On Phelps place northwest, heavy banks of purple wisteria attracted much attention. The crabapple blossoms in Anacostia Park also were centers of interest.

Rock Creek Park and Mount Vernon Boulevard teemed with vehicles and pedestrians enjoying the good weather. Park and Metropolitan police had a busy day keeping traffic moving.

Though clouds lurked above throughout the afternoon, no rain spoiled the day. The highest temperature recorded was 76 degrees at 3 p. m. Weather Bureau prophets look for no change in the warm spell for the time being. Showers were not expected for last night and today.

Boy Is Badly Hurt By 30-Foot Fall

Topples From Fort Dupont Lookout Tower; Struck by Dropping Board.

Howard Handran, 13, of 832 D street southeast, was in a critical condition at Casualty Hospital last night from injuries suffered yesterday afternoon when he fell about 30 feet in the grounds of Fort Dupont at 4210 Alabama avenue southeast.

According to witnesses the boy was playing on top of the lookout tower when the flooring broke precipitating him to the hard ground 30 feet below. A board from the same flooring fell after him and struck him just after he hit the ground.

At the hospital, where he was removed in the ambulance, he was said to be suffering from a possible fracture of the skull, internal injuries and a fractured left leg.

QUIN URGES RETURN TO GOD AND CHURCH

Texas Bishop Pleads for St. Albans Worshipers to Fight Intrigue.

Combat the cauldron of world intrigue and unrighteousness with faith in God and a return to the church, the Right Rev. Clinton S. Quin, Bishop of Texas, told worshipers attending the St. Alban's Church yesterday.

Contending that business ethics had decreased in standard and that the rumblings of war in Manchuria, the persecution of the Jews in Germany and present unfriendliness between Germany and Italy all indicated the condition of the world today, Bishop Quin declared that the church alone would be the salvation.

President Roosevelt when inducted into office amid the turbulent conditions of the Nation went to the church to get courage and strength, the Bishop asserted.

Using as his text the 22d verse of the 27th chapter of St. Mark, "What Then Shall I do With Jesus," Bishop Quin stated that while other well-known characters are transient in their fame, "Jesus Christ is the most persistent character the world has ever known."

He berated those who do not attend church services, thus losing the consolation and strength of belief offered. Referring to a confirmation class at the church last week, he said that in their statement of faith in their God, they had pledged to accept His plan for the development of life.

With the words "I do" in confirmation services, Bishop Quin asserted, "You settle the issue by declaration, by word of mouth, and if you have the courage to follow through this community may know what we stand for. Now the question is whether we have the courage and conviction to go out into the city and let the people know without ostentation what we have done with that challenge, 'What will I do with Jesus?' I don't believe you will develop the courage unless you go to the power house, the church of the Living God, and ask Him to give you the courage you need."

Burglars Obtain $25 In Food-Shop Radio

Burglars early yesterday broke into a sandwich shop at 1406 H street northwest and made off with about $25, which was hidden in a radio.

Mrs. Audrey Croson, of 264 Sixteenth street southeast, manager of the shop, who made the report to police, said that entry had been gained through a rear door from which the glass had been removed.

DR. SMITH PRAISES ROOSEVELT AS CHIEF NEEDED BY COUNTRY

St. Thomas' Pastor Asserts Leadership Appeals to Nation in Crisis.

"We have long been looking for a leader who, like Moses of old, Israel's God-given leader, will go before us and lead us out of our slough of despond, out of our state of panic, out of the wilderness of our silent factories and closed banks, with our hopeless and helpless multitudes, who seek for work, and seek for it in vain," stated Dr. C. Ernest Smith, pastor of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, preaching yesterday morning at a special service attended by the President and Mrs. Roosevelt and a White House party.

"And now we have a leader," he continued. "And because we have him the world no longer appears to be a world in ruins and our hearts are no longer failing us for fear, as they did but a very short while ago. Already with brightening skies we have cheerful faces which tell of happier hearts.

"Men always respond to leadership. On the storm-tossed ocean, in the midst of the destroying pestilence; in the raging fire of the deadly cannonade worthwhile men always rejoice to hear the clear, masterful voice of a leader, calling to them and saying, 'Follow me.' And not less but more is it thus when it is their country which needs them and their leaders are calling them.

Recites Prayer.

"And now that we have such a leader I bid you presently to pray that God may give him wisdom and strength and power and that you today and every day will give him your whole-hearted and unceasing loyalty and the aid of your constant prayers."

Here Dr. Smith recited the President's prayer from the Episcopal service:

"O, Lord, our God, whose glory is in all the world, we commend this Nation to Thy merciful care, that being guided by Thy Providence we may dwell secure in Thy peace. Grant to Thy servant, the President of the United States, wisdom and strength to know and do Thy will; and so replenish him with the grace of Thy Holy Spirit that he may always incline to Thy will and walk in Thy way. And make him ever mindful of his calling to serve this people in their fear, through Jesus Christ our Lord, Who liveth and reigneth with Thee and the Holy Ghost, one God, world without end. Amen."

An Inspiration.

"You ask, 'Whose idea was President's Day?' Listen. The answer to that question is this: It was no one's idea. All unconsciously, our President himself is responsible for it. It was a happy thought, an inspiration we may perhaps better term it, to suggest the holding of a day when, as a united people, we should join one another in strengthening our President's hands.

"A still happier inspiration that expressing this thought in tangible form we should do so not in the homes of our citizens, nor yet in the halls of our Legislatures; but in the houses of God throughout the land, whereof whatsoever creeds we be, and forgetting our divisions of whatever kind they are, with one heart and one voice, should together seek God's help for our President, remembering always that 'except the Lord keep the city, the watchman watcheth in vain; except the Lord build the house, their labor is but lost that built it'."

Generally Observed.

President's Day was observed in virtually all of the Capital with either special services or special prayers.

Special services were held in the Church of the Immaculate Conception and broadcast by the Washington Catholic Radio Hour directly from the church. "The Prayer for Our President," written by Mrs. Chauncey M. Depew, and approved by Archbishop Curley, was read at the services. In the absence of Father Francis M. Hurney, director of the broadcast services and pastor of the church, the Rev. Stanley Czyz presided.

Archbishop Athenagoras, head of the Hellenic Eastern Orthodox Church of North and South America, officiated at special services held in St. Sophia's Church, Eighth and L streets northwest.

The Rev. Edgar C. Beery, pastor of the Francis Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church South, preached on "The Girdle of Loyalty."

Senator Spring Speaks.

"Days of Reconstruction" was the topic on which Dr. H. H. Harmon preached at the National City Christian Church.

Senator William H. King, of Utah, delivered the principal address at the Washington Hebrew Congregation at the Eighth Street Temple. The ceremonies were held under the direction of Joseph Salomon.

Many other special services in observance of President's Day were held at churches of all creeds.

The congregations Tifereth Israel, led by Rabbi Gedaliah Silverstone and Southeast Talmud Torah, led by Rabbi M. A. Horwitz, observed President's Day at services Saturday.

Noted Christ Painting Being Exhibited Here

Col. Henry Tanley Todd's Portrayal, Famous for Its Virile Demeanor, Unveiled at National City Christian Church.

The painting of Christ by Col. Henry Tanley Todd, which has attracted considerable attention because of its bold and original conception, was unveiled at the National City Christian Church yesterday afternoon in the presence of several hundred persons.

The painting, which portrays Christ as blond and with a more courageous and virile demeanor than most paintings, will be on exhibition at the church from 2 until 6 and after 7 p. m., every day this week.

Unveiling of the painting in the Capital was strikingly effective. The church was plunged into darkness, the choir sang, and while concealed flood lights were directed on the picture, blue draperies were drawn aside by two women members of the choir.

Dr. Charles Haddon Bloom, of New York, curator of the picture, preached on "That One Face." Dr. Bloom will be at the church all week to answer questions concerning the work and to welcome school and other delegations.

Dr. W. L. Darby, secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches, under whose auspices the painting is being shown in Washington, presided at the unveiling, the Rev. Carl C. Rasmussen, of the Luther Place Memorial Church, gave the invocation; the Rev. Henry H. Ranck read a scripture lesson, and the Rev. Samuel J. Porter and the Rev. Z. Barney Phillips also participated.

Col. Todd declared that the experience he had during the World War inspired him to paint the picture. He was on the general staff, assigned to the intelligence division, and a Red Cross Commissioner in France and Belgium.

The picture is insured for $50,000.

DRY ACT IS TRACED TO TRADE DEMAND

Nichol Denies That "Fanatic Drys" Fastened Prohibition on Country.

Refuting the claims that prohibition was foisted on American citizenry by a small group of fanatic drys, Francis D. Nichol, of the American Temperance Society of Seven Day Adventists, stated at the Gunton Memorial Presbyterian Church yesterday that the eighteenth amendment was enacted to meet the demands of industry for more efficient workmen.

"The railroads were probably the first to lock horns with the liquor industry," he stated. "This branch of American industry was not alone in its protests of employes reeling from the effects of liquor," he asserted.

Mr. Nichol told those attending the church that American manufacturers were becoming not only efficiency conscious but safety conscious also. Further maintaining his argument, Mr. Nichol stated:

"But great as was the economic factor in creating sentiment against liquor, there was another force almost, if not equally as strong—the scientific. As the business world was moving into its modern phase, with efficiency as the keyword, the scientific world was rapidly making a shrine of the laboratory, and forcing every time-honored theory to bow down before the test tube. Now, there were many venerable and hitherto unchallenged theories about drink. Men had always believed that a little liquor lightened the load, gave new strength and energy for a task, gave new warmth to the chilled body; that, indeed, alcohol was an elixir of life.

"Thousands of years of pouring liquor into men's stomachs had created these remarkable claims, but a very few years of pouring liquor into test tubes sufficed to explode them. The halo that had long been placed around drink by poets and bibulous folk quickly began to fade. Various scientists made extensive tests as to the relation of liquor to the capacity of man for work, and established beyond all reasonable doubt that the worker's efficiency is reduced very materially as a result of imbibing. Such findings as these served to reinforce the opposition of business leaders to drink.

"From still another source came indictments of liquor, more specifically of the liquor industry. In certain large cities, crime and vice commissions were appointed at different times. The fact that they were appointed by city or State officials freed their findings from any suspicion of bias toward prohibition.

"The saloon was indicted as the hangout of criminals and the companion to the house of ill fame, to mention only two indictments. No one can reasonably doubt that such reports, receiving, as they did, much publicity, played an important part in shaping public sentiment against the liquor industry. In truth, it is hard to overestimate their importance."

AUTO SAFETY DRIVE UNDER WAY TODAY

Many Groups Cooperating in Poster Campaign to Cut Casualties.

Motor vehicle departments of fourteen States and the District of Columbia, a group of major oil companies, and the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters are allied in a seven-month safety campaign which will be started in the District today by W. A. Van Duzer, Director of Vehicles and Traffic. Tomorrow and throughout May thousands of oil company service stations in the cooperating States will display the first of a series of seven posters which are the basis of a broad appeal to millions of motorists to drive more carefully. Each will be shown in a conspicuous place.

The first poster, which is in six colors, shows a motorist holding the limp form of a little girl. He stands in front of an automobile and exclaims, "What have I done" as if he had just realized the consequences of a careless act. It has been praised as a most effective safety lesson. It was painted by Hayden Hayden, a widely known poster artist.

Subsequent posters will depict automobiles involved in various accidents as a result of traffic violations and driving errors. Each picture will portray a different situation contributing to the heavy annual toll of life, limb and property taken by the automobile.

In his announcement Mr. Van Duzer said the campaign is the outgrowth of a similar project successfully carried out in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania last summer.

These three States will join the campaign again this year, Mr. Van Duzer said, as well as Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, Vermont, Connecticut and Delaware. Posters will be displayed in nearly 7,500 service stations. Last year only 4,500 stations were reached.

"Our automobile death and injury rate is too high for a civilized community," Mr. Van Duzer declared. "Last year 29,500 persons were killed in the United States and nearly a million were injured. We suffered an economic loss running into billions. In the District last year there were 123 persons killed and 3,903 injured in automobile accidents.

"Since January 1, 1933, conditions have improved in the District. Reduced registrations and the less frequent use of automobiles may be responsible for this improvement over over last year's record. We are not satisfied to stop there, and that is why we are striving this year to make our streets safe for every motorist and pedestrian. The constant repetition of safety lessons is the best way to bring this about."
